Good to see it's back online :)

tunerheat.com is a nice place to discuss about cars in general, you can share issues you're encountering with your ride but also talk about drifting and racing. If you want to bragg about your motor then show it off and take a break in the DIY/How to section to learn some new stuff about mechanics.

It's a shame the theme is relatively simple because tuning is a really flashy and kind of underground art, if you reflect those aspects onto the design of your forums then it will definitely appeal much more straightaway. Here take a Luck potion from me :)

Oh I know exactly what you mean. We JUST mitigated from MyBB over to vBulletin so we do not have a skin yet, whereas on MyBB we had a very "underground" look theme installed, but I wasn't a fan of the MyBB in general

Hmmm, what's broken? And thank you, the user SIMAAS did it for us :)

Also, yes, the theme color is still being changed time to time as I'm looking for the best colors haha. The layout has been the same for a week or so now. Only things being changed are the colors ?

but a theme similar to the hack forums purple theme would be kinda cool to see

The old one or the different style of the blue one? Also, we're on vBulletin, so theme editing is a lot different than MyBB haha. Regardless, would rather not copy HF too much and keep it Tuner Heat's own style ?

Unfortunately not! Might possibly due a little promotion for that to get the ball rolling, however, there are such limited members on HF who would be willing to do so due to how narrowed down the niche is.

Before I dug into vBulletin as much as I did after purchasing, I didn't realize vBulletin was completely looking to get rid of all 3rd party developers (as in they are trying to remove all plugins, mods, etc. by changing their coding EVERY update). I need a software that has more variety than just default :)

Nice, haven't really seen many car related forums. Is your theme custom? It looks really nice and clean. I like it.

I've noticed you switch themes a lot. Why don't you just buy a custom one to suit your ideals?

That's exactly what me and Aoki are doing right now. The current theme will be our final theme, and when everything is edited and finished, it'll be quite a nice and simplistic theme.

Twin Future - November 23, 2016, 12:12 am

Honestly I'd recommend getting a theme by like
Johnny S

Effone

WallBB

Dynaxel

They're all really good. People typically say all of their designs look the same but that's mostly because people don't give them a detailed description of their vision or they don't generally have a design in mind they just pay and say give me something nice. But I find that if you work on the theme with them you'll get a very unique theme that doesn't really resemble any of their others. I don't really know about Aoki though. Hopefully you get a rather good design though.

A car forum is really original, I also saw that custom splitter thread you posted haha didn't think I'd ever come across anyone else who watches Birdy's videos. Nice Aoki is really good at creating themes "out of the ordinary" if that makes sense? All those designers, as others say, create similar themes, which is true in a sense, but as you said, it's due to lack of description. Me personally, I prefer Aoki's work over ANYONES. I've known him for years and he's always been my MyBB designer back when I ran a hip-hop forum and he has progressed a lot.

Haven't seen any recent themes from him so I don't really know. But I do agree that he's pretty good at what he does. I've seen people say his designs all look the same as well but I mean he has a decent style and is rather good at coding it so hey. Is the theme you're using right now the one you guys are working on? or?

The current theme is indeed what we're working on. Still working on the profiles and other minor changes. We've done a lot to it so far, just gonna fix up a few other things.

I was thinking about adding a background like that, but unsure how it'd be like for bigger screens/mobile look. I've honestly contemplated it because I've done it before, but unsure if I want to go that route if you know what I mean? I want a simplistic, yet effective theme.

Yeah I get what you mean, I searched google for a while looking for a image that would fit well then used Inspect Element to tinker with it.

Spoiler \(Click to View\)

I made trow1 & trow2 a bit transparent so you can see the background but still dark enough so you can read the text without struggle. It gives a nice Car vibe to me, the original theme is simple yes but it also doesn't really give a Car kind of vibe to me it just kinda screams Inactive forum to me lol. But with my small changes it screams of activity to me but I don't know that's just my opinion.

I'm sure there's ways to code everything so it fits just right on both Computer and Phone.

Mind shooting me that image link? I'll take a look on how it looks like through my side via inspect element as well

Yeah of course, it's this one:

Spoiler \(Click to View\)

Also.. what I used for the transparency was

Code `rgba(0,0,0,0.8)`and for Darker just go with 0.9 or so.

edit: Forgot to mention I just disabled the header image you had so the background image went throughout the whole theme.

The image isn't big enough to fit throughout the entire theme and be centered. That's the issue with backgrounds that aren't patterns due to different screen resolutions

What do you think about a simple pattern like the one I just added? Identifies some carbon fiber to the theme

Ah, yeah that was the reason. But well I think the other background makes the theme pop more. I get the dilemma though haha it's always a tough decision finding a fitting background. Always easier to just go without one but if you find one that fits well then the theme will look a lot better.

Well you definitely did improve the theme a bit. I must say I am not really pleased that you removed the original theme creator Envy out of the footer. If you have contacted them to remove the credits then that's my fault on my end but seriously man.

I meant to comment about your postbit on your theme criticism thread but, it's really cluttered and I know you could do better. You should consider condensing it and cleaning it up. At the very least remove the fontawesome icons before the information.

Otherwise as I said before, I really like the theme edit. I'll consider joining the forum in a couple of days when I get more time on my hands. Not into street racing but I do like cars alot and I can go on for days about my car.
