Thread: How to prevent your id computer changes?

francy39 - October 11, 2016, 3:38 am

I have a program that validates my id to function, otherwise my id computer does not match with that of the detabas not work

My id computer changes alone why?

How can i do?

Hey OP,

I see English isn't your main language, so can you try to explain what's happening again as I find it hard to understand (use a translator if you need to). Give as much information as possible.

I purchased ominirat.

They asked me the id computer. I gave him my computer id.

Only the id computer my computer changes often (why? Does not remain static?

In this way, the program does not work

Oh, you mean the hardware ID! I am with you now.

It should be static, are you changing anything on your computer? Are you running the software in a virtual machine?

No, I have not changed anything. Do not use virtual machines

How can I do to change it or make it static

When i download their program called ComputerID

I get this number: AEA2Bc3EDCC22AFE222ADB649F98E08E

I think it is hardware encoded id?
