

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Admin and Community Input on Tutorial Posting - Theft

patflexx - October 13, 2016, 7:39 pm

I read over the rules posted in this section, I did not find anything that would technically disallow it, but I wanted input from the admins and community on me possibly posting a type of tutorial (if allowed, and welcomed, where to post it).

I would consider posting a retail theft tutorial, Not a guide just for informing people of techniques, but also ways to not get caught - From A retail management worker at a major retail store.

Ethics are extremely questionable, but there is no way around it, people do it, and for some it could be used as a way to learn how to combat it.

If there are no rules against this, how would people feel about this type of Guide? (Almost as important as policy).

DefinitelyNotHex - October 13, 2016, 7:41 pm

(Oct 13, 2016 07:39 PM)patflexx Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I read over the rules posted in this section, I did not find anything that would technically disallow it, but I wanted input from the admins and community on me possibly posting a type of tutorial (if allowed, and welcomed, where to post it).

I would consider posting a retail theft tutorial, Not a guide just for informing people of techniques, but also ways to not get caught - From A retail management worker at a major retail store.

Ethics are extremely questionable, but there is no way around it, people do it, and for some it could be used as a way to learn how to combat it.

If there are no rules against this, how would people feel about this type of Guide? (Almost as important as policy).

I would assume if it has anything to do with theft it is probably disallowed.

patflexx - October 13, 2016, 7:44 pm

(Oct 13, 2016 07:41 PM)DefinitelyNotHex Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I would assume if it has anything to do with theft it is probably disallowed.

I know certain forms of theft discussion are disallowed, but I wanted to inquire before I made an effort to create a tutorial.

as a newer member of this forum, and as a member altogether, if this was allowed, what would your views on a tutorial like that be? I don't want to post something that people may find "petty" or pointless.

Night Fury - October 13, 2016, 9:07 pm

I think a guide that involves illegal activity will not be allowed here.

Fellow Man - October 13, 2016, 9:26 pm

I would love to hear it lol PM me

VirtualFrost - October 13, 2016, 9:34 pm

If we can't discuss online theft I couldn't see it being okay to discuss real life theft

Bluffer - October 13, 2016, 10:30 pm

Sorry mate I can almost guarantee you this will not be allowed on here.

b?xxy - October 13, 2016, 10:32 pm

Yeah this wouldn't be allowed, and is frowned upon here.

patflexx - October 13, 2016, 10:33 pm

Alright, thanks for everyone's input. All makes sense, it was what I suspected, Saved me some time, and trouble with everyone's help.

(Oct 13, 2016 09:26 PM)Fellow Man Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I would love to hear it lol PM me

I most likely won't write it if community agrees its not allowed but if I ever do, I will let you know.

Omniscient - October 14, 2016, 10:04 am

Going to simply ask that you don't do it.