There's no way of doing this as messages are stored locally (and last 30 days backed up to the cloud), unless I'm not understanding you correctly.

Na. It is possible I have a tool that worked until the last update. It would simply MASS remove all messages. Just like when you right click and click remove, but it would do it all in bulk fast!

So I know its possible.

as he stated above this is not poss. any more due to there new update i dont think you can do it. not to mention hooking to skype is shitty anyways.

? \[\$\(1000\)\$ ? - October 19, 2016, 3:47 pm

Well it was possible right before the new update. It is just like when you right click a message and click "Remove", but it would do it automatically and fast.

x0176852 - October 20, 2016, 8:10 am

Its possible and I give u here the code to add to ur tool etc...

Code Private Sub Button3_Click(sender As Object, e As EventArgs)

Try

Dim enumerator As IEnumerator =

Me.pSkype.RecentChats(1).Messages.GetEnumerator()

While enumerator.MoveNext()

Dim chatMessage As ChatMessage = CType(enumerator.Current, ChatMessage)

Dim flag As Boolean = Operators.CompareString(chatMessage.FromHandle, Me.pSkype.CurrentUser.Handle, False) = 0

If flag Then

chatMessage.Body = ""

End If

End While Finally
Dim enumerator As IEnumerator
If TypeOf enumerator Is IDisposable Then (TryCast enumerator, IDisposable).Dispose() End If End Try
End Sub

If is not working I would give u the right code, just find out in a friend skype tool.

You wouldn't be able to make it so that it'd delete on the other person's end.
Deleting it on your end is most probably possible.

Well the one I have did delete on both ends. With the new update the application stopped working on the other persons end. So I know for 100% it is possible.

What's the code?

If it's in .NET, I might be able to adjust it to work.

yep you gave me this tool It was working up until the last update although I will try testing it on skype deob maybe it's not patched on old versions

the program looks like alot like a CMD interface and all you do to trigger mass removal of P2P(not group 1 on 1) chat messages is type =delete into chat ?

? [$(1000)$] ? - October 21, 2016, 4:16 am

Exactly
Thank you for explaining it more clearer

Everyone else can do this let me know

Does it work on older versions of skype??

guillaumed - October 21, 2016, 12:16 pm

Can you tive a dl link to this "tool"? I'm on a older version of skype i'll test it.

2073436 - October 21, 2016, 12:17 pm

No because you normally shouldn't be able to delete messages older than 3600 seconds which is 1 hour.

x0176852 - October 21, 2016, 12:19 pm

I confirm that with a code u can delete skype messages, but I dont have it right now -.-

Essence - October 21, 2016, 2:44 pm

Only way to do it is if the messages you are wanting to delete came from a custom made skype tool that has a mass deleting feature in it. Skype limits deleting a message to like 20-30 minutes. After that time passes on a normal skype client you won't be able to remove your messages anymore. But if you make a feature in a skype tool that allows you to message your contacts through the skype tool, then you can make a button to delete all conversations that were sent using the tool.

Zepsweden - October 22, 2016, 4:25 am

Does anyone know if the messages is stored in the cloud as well ? I,e in case the cops come and you have removed all the messages in a conversation / trashed the HDD, are the messages still inside microsofts skype servers ?

? [$(1000)$] ? - October 22, 2016, 12:55 pm

Bro it is 100% possible to delete your messages aka right click remove with out using a special Skype. I have the tool with the new update the tool does now work. It inknow it is possible with out a special Skype. Lol. Wtf you talking about. To

I do think they can hold all conversations on the cloud for legal reasons but I don't care about that I just like to remove all my messages from the chat window....

If anyone is s able to create this with the new update let me know ..What? They can completely hold as many messages for as long as they want, they can do whatever they want with your account or message sent.. You agreed to that when you accepted the Terms of Service. In fact they often hold messages in the cloud for legal reasons. That is why Skype is not really used within terrorist organisations or for crime. It is actually more secure to use private conversations over facebook messenger than to use Skype for anything illegal. Sadly most people don't realise this..

It USED to be possible. However many updates ago, skype made it so you can only delete messages on both ends that were sent within 24 hours. After that period, deleting no longer works. I don't believe it even works on outdated clients as it was an API change. This is how Skype works and you are not going to change any hard coded logic no matter how much you would like. Also it is good to note that just because you press a delete button doesn't mean it won't be saved on a secondary computer for whoever is on the other end. In fact you can even just move the chat logs out of the skype directory and keep them saved forever. It's not rocket science- it is common sense..

What have you learned?

If you think you will need to delete it, don't send it.. At least not over Skype ?
