

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Marketplace alerts in sig??

?Enlightened - October 24, 2016, 12:00 am

Are you allowed to put marketplace alert thread links/images in your signature??

Cammy - October 24, 2016, 3:16 am

I don't see why not but don't quote me on that minimalist - October 24, 2016, 3:19 am

I don't think so, you're not allowed to include deal dispute in your signature so community alerts probably fall under the same boat.

Ambien - October 24, 2016, 5:03 am

I've seen users sig say stuff like " X scammed me for X DWC " but idk if they're allowed to do that

?Enlightened - October 24, 2016, 7:06 am

(Oct 24, 2016 05:06 AM)Craxzy Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I'm pretty sure that you are allowed to as long as it links to a deal dispute. I didn't find anything about it in the rules.

I know the rules about deal disputes...you're not allowed to link to them in your sigs (I'm pretty sure?)

But there is no explicit reference to marketplace alerts as far as I have searched

Egregious Jr. - October 24, 2016, 8:07 am

I don't see anything in the rules that's against this.

b?xxy - October 24, 2016, 9:24 am

I don't see a problem with it.

There used to be something about having certain kinds of marketplace threads in your signatures(Stressers I think)

I have a Community Alert in my signature.

Lrrr - October 24, 2016, 10:37 am

You are allowed to post a link to a deal dispute or community alert in your signature AS LONG AS you are the creator of said thread.

b?xxy - October 24, 2016, 10:39 am

(Oct 24, 2016 10:37 AM)Lrrr Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) You are allowed to post a link to a deal dispute or community alert in your signature AS LONG AS you are the creator of said thread.

Just like leaving reputation.

That makes sense.