Thread: [\[Community Alert\] Black Shadow | UID=63387 | Issue with \$100 BTC Exchange.](#)

test - October 24, 2016, 10:12 pm

The original deal with Black Shadow was for me to sell $100 BTC to him at a 15% rate. The following are all screenshots from our PM's.

I was selling $100 BTC to Black Shadow at a 15% rate which was agreed upon.

Spoiler \(Click to View\)

He claims there was an error that PayPal would not let the funds send to me, perhaps because we have not dealt before? He gave me the choice to wait for him to call them and resolve it or just refund me. I gave him the benefit of the doubt.

Spoiler \(Click to View\)

He then goes on to say his lift to work came early, so he could not call PayPal to resolve the issue still. He says it will be done at 8pm.

Spoiler \(Click to View\)

I was pretty tired of it at this point as I do not like leaving funds out in the open for too long with extended deals. I give him 8 hours (when I woke up that day) and if he still couldn't deliver the $115 PP I would just like a refund. He claims he WILL refund me but is now 'away from home' for the weekend. He states he will also give me $5 extra as compensation.

Spoiler \(Click to View\)

The next message I simple as for a refund as this is taking too long. He goes on and jokes about scamming me. He says he is joking and goes onto explain his other scam report and defend himself. He guarantees me that he is away until tomorrow (Monday the 24th) and will return it to me as soon as he is home.

Spoiler \(Click to View\)

I replied to that with my BTC address and a 24 hour notice that I will open a scam report if it is not returned to me. He asks me to slow down and says that now he won't be home until Wednesday, which was originally supposed to be Monday.

Spoiler \(Click to View\)

Below is a screenshot from my Electrum Wallet - showing the date and amount sent.

Spoiler \(Click to View\)

Click here to view it on BlockChain

Additional Information:

He has apparently been doing exchanges Yesterday, even when he is out of his house and doesn't have access to his BTC Wallet? I find that extremely odd.

Spoiler \(Click to View\)

I am more than happy to mark this as resolved, as I have told Black Shadow, when my currency is returned. Until then this will be kept open as a warning to anyone else planning to deal with him.

Trevon - October 24, 2016, 10:17 pm

So maybe the first scam report was a legit report? You seem to have enough evidence for this to work in your favor, good luck OP.

Sorry it happened to you.

SwordofJustice - October 24, 2016, 10:19 pm

There is just no justice in this world is there and he had the audacity to have a go at me over something a while back.

Hope he pays you it back I hate scammers.

TheChi?f - October 24, 2016, 10:21 pm

Seems like a legitimate report to me. Sorry about your loss. I am pretty sure he has over $100 in his bustabit accounts as well.

SIM-888979 - October 24, 2016, 10:22 pm

Pretty sure he is gonna say "now that you made this report, I will no longer refund you" or some bullshit like that.

Sharjah - October 24, 2016, 10:22 pm

Typical. He's too addicted to bustabit. He definitely put in all that money into bustabit and lost it all. Someone needs to help him, seriously.

You know you are in the wrong, but you expect someone to be happy that you have been holding $100 of their money for a couple of days.

It'd be nice if he'd just withdraw from his gambling accounts to repay you, as this could all be done in the next 20 minutes. But that'd mean he has to stop gambling with other people's money. Unfortunately that is something he can not stop doing.

<https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=5197717>

<https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=5439740>

but in one of them. He explains that he has "all the btc you need".

Plus look at his reps, recent exchanges.

Lets have a little run down on BlackDildo.

1: If he sold those $1000 methods already, he will have no problem refunding $250 BTC. (made of the other thread)

2: If his shitty method(s) worked. He would have a lot of BTC thus have no problem refunding OP. (Of other thread)

3: His shitty bustabit method is more of a bustaholeinyourwalletbecauseidosen'tfuckingworkcunt.

IMO if he has the money right now, wait for OP to get on. Regardless if it took longer, we can all agree once he's paid, it's better than him not getting paid. No point continuing to call him a scammer if he's trying to resolve it right now. I do realise he still has another one that has been out longer, but I really hope after this one, he makes the next one a priority to do. Not trying to stick up for Black Shadow, I still believe what he does is stupid, but if it's getting resolved, then so be it.

How long ago did he link you to that Blockchain transaction?

I ask because that fee is half of what it should be. He could be showing you a transaction that he knows will never confirm.

Granted, I'm not sure how little the fee needs to be for this to happen, but sending with incredibly low fees is a good way to show "proof" and then double spend the payment before it's confirmed.

test - October 26, 2016, 1:08 am

That's what I thought, a fake link that would just never confirm.

Well blockchain has over 50k unconfirmed transactions which is higher than the high amount of confirmations. So it could take up to a day to even get 1 confirmation

With the fee that he sent, it could take between 5 and infinite blocks to confirm. This gives him a chance to recover the funds.

If he just paid $0.13 in fees, you would have your money already. Instead he cut that in half to $0.07, which can mean the transaction will never process.

A bit of light reading:

If you have sent a transaction without (or with an exceptionally small) transaction fee:

Expect it to be ignored for an unknown amount of time until a miner decides to process it and solves the block; this could be several days to several weeks, possibly never. Your wallet and any Bitcoin node will show it as unconfirmed, your transaction is stuck in limbo.

Block sizes are limited, which means that only a limited number of transactions can be processed in a certain time frame. In the beginning of bitcoin, there was lots of free space in each block because there were not many transactions. However, now that Bitcoin is quite popular there are more transactions than can be processed into the current block. This is why transaction fees have increased, and as long as someone is still willing to pay more they will keep increasing.

What can I do to speed-up the transaction's confirmation?

Nothing. The next best thing is to cancel and resend the transaction.

HE IS GETTING IT BACK ON TUESDAY

Here is whats happened.....

Last Friday I exchanged my PP for OPs BTC he went first

Now I went to pay him but I had a security issue paying and I said I will sort it out, he said OK

I got in contact with PP about this issue but it could not be resolved.

I tried to contact OP to pay him back but he did not come on for over 24 hours

I work away and got called into work the next day, so went away for a few days by the time he contacted me.

My BTC was in a wallet on my HD that I keep at home.

I came home and contacted OP but only heard from him 12 hours later

I purchased more BTC for him as I had used what BTC and was going to pay OP that day.

There was a bad BTC problem that day were transactions were taking forever to complete mine took over 24 hours.

By that time I had to go back to work so the BTC I have for OP is in my wallet on my HD ready to pay him when I get back Tuesday night.

Yes I have been doing small exchanges while I am away to play bustabit with but these are only like $20

TL;DR

You keep saying you'll pay him back, you keep making excuses to delay it, why not instead of writing this big explanation post, just look at the PM, send the BTC back? OP doesn't need to be online for you to click one button to send the bitcoins back, you have his address.

I have finally completed it this weekend I am now running 3 accounts

I may as well pay him tomorrow TBH and just transfer from these accounts, but I really like to do it from my wallet.

Account 1

Account 2

Account 3
