Quick suggestion.

Add a spoiler icon which makes it way more simple to create bigger threads.

There are also threads made how to spoiler stuff and I'm sure that people still don't know how.

Just a little suggestion which makes making bigger threads easier.

This is what I mean:

what like having a button that auto makes a spoiler bar?

Spoiler \(Click to View\) seems dope.

That is a very nice idea. The ] key is not on my keyboard, so whenever I create a spoiler I have to open my screen-keyboard which is really annoying.

Creating other things are easy because of the icons available.

Nice idea.

Thanks for taking the time to share a little bit of knowledge OP. Spoilers always entice me to read further lol.

The problem with these button is that a extra window pop-ups where you can type your stuff, some spoilers can be rather long.

The button should just add [spoiler] [/ spoiler] in text to the thread, that would be helpful.

Omni denied this suggestion before but he made it easier by just using Code [sp]/[sp]

Spoilers have malicious content often. Do not give in to curiosity.

Just as like can select text and add this could also be done with [spoiler]

But people like me didn't know that was possible at all and this shouldn't be the hardest thing to add, I think.

So far people find it a good thing to add.

This ^ I don't see the issue, honestly? I always type my codes out, it's easier for me at least.

This is a tiny suggestion for making large threads, not for quick replies.
It's always more clear and easy to select the text and click.

You have people who do not even know how to spoiler stuff.

I really don't see how it should be added. If I remember correctly, this suggestion has been denied before. if anything the spoiler tags should be in the Help Docs.
