Thread: DIY DDoS Protected CDN | Auto Installer | Make Your Own DDoS Protected CDN In Minutes

Syracusia - November 2, 2016, 1:32 am

Hello,

I am no longer able to operate the AthenaLayer project at this time due to the huge server expenses which are incurred by the daily attacks I receive. Perhaps if I get the right funding then I will be able to bring it back again.

While I can not go into that business right now, I still have some extremely advanced software which is completely automated.

Here are some of the features that the CDN will have

*Full User Control Panel

- Registration
- Login
- Add Website

*Layer 7 DDoS Protection

- All websites will automatically receive Layer 7 DDoS protection which is built into the software

*Automatic Caching

- Automatic caching of static content from back end servers

*Custom Browser Check Page

- Custom browser check page system as well as the ability for custom dynamic check pages configurable in control panel.

The system will be VERY easy to install - I am talking just 1 line of code and the system will be installed. In just minutes you will have your own CDN server deployed.

Right now the cost of this software will be undetermined.

But it will be something like $15-$45/Mo depending on the number of features that you want in your CDN.

Post here if you have any questions/concerns or suggestions.

BTW, I am going to build this system to have need no back end configuration at all. Everything will be automated.

Another chance for you to fail at something. I like it.

Seriously though, I hope you manage to get a customer this time and you don't lie about each and every feature within your product. That may be asking too much from you though.

Isn't AthenaLayer that 1 OVH reseller that uses some open source nginx cookie module to check for a static cookie?

I'm honestly not seeing what you offer that nginx can't offer a better alternative for and without the cost.

Anything you guys say on here literally means nothing. Almost every single hater on here is ugly, a virgin, unintelligent, and has nothing going for them socially, economically, or even intellectually.

You guys are the scum of the earth haha and you're ability/inability to reproduce shows that.

I feel pretty damn good about myself.

I work threat analysis for a bank, while going to Uni full time.
I run a side project hosting servers that's profitable.
I don't have a YouTube video of me getting wrecked by one of the world's most hated individuals.
I don't lie to people on the internet to feed my ego, and I'm actually able to admit my own mistakes when they occur.
My ego, whilst it can be mighty, is not so large that I think I'm right 100% of the time, unlike someone else on this thread. cough Lik cough

It's cool though, I don't want to be friends with a manipulative liar who consistently makes a fool and a mockery of himself.

Oh, I know Shreki is a major tool. I hate the guy.

However, watching that video it's absolutely painful for me, as he's consistently making you look like a fucking retard. It actually causes me to root for the bad guy, as he's arguing with someone else who is even more difficult, at least in the short-term, to like.

You can stand up all you want against the bad guys. It doesn't work however when you make yourself look more retarded than they are. It was a win for Shrekli in this situation, and you handed it to him on a silver platter.

Reposting what I posted a few minutes ago, this time better phrased.

Whilst I encourage you're trying to make something out of this, I don't necessarily think it will work, you see, threats are always constantly evolving, and you are trying to build a product, not a solution. What's the difference? Well, let's begin with the principal, first of all, you brand the thread as a DDoS Protected CDN that's a DIY (do it yourself), this would provide a solution to a problem, if worked correctly, but by adding this big fancy (buggy) control panel, you're putting lipstick on a pig, you're turning a solution into a product. If you came here and said, "I'm going to write an adaptable web server, that it's primary focus is to distribute content based off of geographical position, and detect Layer 7 attacks based off signatures/patterns" - this would be a reasonable, implementable solution. But, no matter how long we sit here and argue over a product vs solution, the key point remains that no matter how good you try to put the lipstick on the pig, it's still a pig and will always be one.

So, you want some suggestions, here is my advice:

1. Quit now, just don't do it, refocus this into a solution, not a product

2. Learn C/C++/Golang, write an adaptable web server, with geographical position detection based off of GeoIP database
3. Create an adaptable, changeable rules filter, that matches for patterns, ie: "Wordpress/XML-RPC" pattern, joomla, etc.
4. Open source it, ask the open source community for assistance, show them what you've started, and let others help make it a reasonable solution
5. Alas, be proud of this new solution that has been created, not just lipstick on a pig like your initial idea

If you are serious about this, and intend to follow my advice, you can reach out to me for support. Don't mess up again. If you took the right approach the first time, I would have a lot more respect for you, and I am sure the other members would also.
