

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Vittorio Testimony

Vittorio - November 3, 2016, 11:14 am

2013

I started out as a kid with not much knowledge in computer and really had no idea how they worked. I often played steam a lot until one day I decided to google the words hack + forums in a search, I found the website and signed up with hopes of becoming a master hacker. Times passed i get more comfortable with the forum and start learning new things that I had no idea they existed

2014

With a year of experience in the forum I started loving become very friendly with people and creating great friendships with people I've never met in real life. Finding interest in all these cool sub forums and finding many things I enjoyed of this forum. Found this forum as a great way to deal with the boredom I horribly faced all the time, it seemed to me this forum made me forget of the worries I had to face in the real world giving me a whole new attitude.

2015

The market place, I started out in this forum to build friendships and stayed away from the market place. Until the day came that I started getting more fascinated with the. Adler and all the amazing ways I could make some cash fast and easy with the guidance of wonderful members. I found a way that made me tons of money that I could not believe I was making at the time. The reason I am forever thankful for this forum is the fact it turned me into a better direction in life, completely helping me a ton with my financial issues and solving them very fast. I've created wonderful friendships and wonderful ways to get Money.

2016

Here I am 3 years later writing about the amazing way this website has changed my life. I'm going to make a promise in this thread that I'll make sure my entire existence on hackforums will be for the good and I hope to make a more positive contribution to this forum and welcome all new members with the guides to the direction of HQ

Overall

Hackforums has made me become the person I've became today making me into the person I'd never imagine that I could be. This forum made me realise the potential in me that I've never realised. I'm forever thankful and express the highest gratitude to this forum.