Thread: Can I sell this?

B?ker - November 6, 2016, 6:45 pm

So I have a subscription to a website that allows me access to resume .PSD, .AI, .Words, etc.

Was curious If I could re-sell them here?

For example : <https://rocketr.net/buy/d01e358bb9a0>

Sell the account, or resell the items? If the items come with re-sale rights then yes. If they do not, than no.

For example, reselling envato items is dissalowed because you cannot buy resale rights to the items, though selling the envato account IS allowed.

That's what confuses me :c I don't understand that?

Are you actually allowed to resell the Resumes or are they copyright/forbidden to resell? If so, you can't resell them on here.

Are you allowed to sell the actual account itself? If so you can sell that.

That's what I understood from Lrrr's post.

That's what I understood from Lrrr's post.Yes I understood that, but why? is more my question if Lrrr is right. That makes no sense, I can resell the account but can't resell the items from the account.

Because reselling the items constitutes Copyright Infringement, while selling the account WITH the items does not.

And why on earth can you not re-sell a template on a website that discusses the creation, and techniques behind creating, installing, and hiding malware on pcs?

What rule would it be breaking?

What is so hard to understand about Copyright Infringement....

You can't sell something that's not yours to sell.

You can argue any semantic you want, the end result will be the same. You cannot sell something that doesn't belong to you unless you have RESALE RIGHTS to that item.

I understand, his argument is that it makes no sense we are allowed to sell the account but can't resell the items, which is also against the ToS and copyright infringement.

I do not plan on selling at this point unless omni / staff verify I can. king of hearts did verify I'm not allowed didn't clarify as to why we are allowed to sell the account but not the content

Lrrr - November 7, 2016, 9:17 am

I have clarified already why.

Selling Items - DISSALLOWED because the item is not yours to sell, you do not own resale rights to the item.

Selling Account - ALLOWED because it's an NFA and nothing in HF policy states that selling of this type of account is disallowed.

This all has to do with the Copyright Infringement and DMCA action.

There are plenty of things on HF that break this exact rule and go unpunished. The countless cracked hacks/games being redistributed just to name one. Not to mention the rule doesn't explicitly forbid the sale of copyrighted material, just the use, although I'm willing to bet Omni wouldn't care what the rule says.

Report the threads, I highly advise not selling items from the account.

With that train of thought 99.9% of the items in the market place should exist. I understand your POV Lrrr, but I agree with Mr Whiskey, this rule or area is very grey.

Can you link me to an example? (if 99.9% shouldn't be hard to find one) that breaks the copyright rules? I will try to explain why it is allowed, or if it should have been reported.

Any in here, <https://hackforums.net/forumdisplay.php?fid=309>

How is giving someone access to copyrighted material not against DMCA, pretty sure it is. For example movie streaming sites that link you the content but dont host it, is still against the law for example.

This is a forum dedicated to selling ACCOUNTS of any kind (some are disallowed) that are not free accounts.

While selling the account may be against TOS of the site the account is on, it is not against TOS here and an account is not copyrighted.

An item purchased on the account IS under copyright protection.

And that account is giving you direct access to copy righted items the SELLER nor you have access to so same exact situation.

So if I created a website with a premium subscription could I sell that gave access to this content then?

What is in the account is not really any of HF's business.

And as for your website idea, yes. BUT you could not advertise the content you could only advertise the account for sale.

Cool thank you, I guess that is a potential workaround, thank you

Yep, it all comes down to a legal protection for HF. Linking to copyright infringing material could easily lead to the forum being taken by the government. Where as selling accounts is just that, selling an account.

Yeah I see your point just doesn't make sense to me I guess I'm probably over thinking I'll just make a website
