Thread: [\[Suggestion\] Hack Forums merch](#)

Hello Hackforums.

So I was thinking about this earlier and I don't know if anyone else has come up with this idea in the past but I think it would be cool if Omni released some type of wearable Hackforums merchandise.

Examples

- Baseball caps
- T-Shirts
- Sweatshirts/Hoodies
- Snapbacks
- Beanies
- Etc.

I mean, I would definitely buy a beanie and a baseball cap, maybe a t-shirt ?

Another thing that I thought would be cool about this is the fact that if this was released and members started wearing it, we could easily identify each other in public. I know that there is a few of you guys I'd love to meet and if I saw someone wearing a Hackforum whatever in public I'd probably walk up and say what's up. It could potentially grow a closer community ?

I don't know, just my thoughts. What do you guys think? If Omni did do this what would you wear that was branded by Hackforums?

It would be more of a collection but even then why on earth would someone buy it lol, the only thing I could see myself buying would be a HackForums mousepad, but even then I won't use it.

I wouldn't say that, I think this is a good idea for omni, if will definetly help the site out financially; also it will let HF members who love the forum to buy some merchandise and show it off.

Ok, and it would be a nice way for people who don't have say 50 dollars to donate to get an award, they can still get an item of some sort and it would still help the forums.

Well I think that's your opinion ?

There's a speedway gas station by my house and they started selling beanies that say speedway on them. If people will buy that I'm pretty sure people would buy Hack Forums merch.

I'd take a baseball cap or a beanie that said "Packets, Punks, and Posts" or had that little blackhat guy on it.

I'd buy em for the whole family. Shit, I'd do giveaway's of the merch.

Well, it's not something I want to put on my plate. Just work I don't want to do. I've done brand merchandise before. It's an investment and then I have to ship items.
