as i said man, not always a good idea. it depends on how you approach the company sometimes.
im not saying ask some random chat support.
i just dont know if anyone from hf will tell u if they spoof. im trying to find out the same thing as you and the information is rather limited im finiding on here a lot of hosts stopped spoofing and they have it's been a direct result of hackforums that's why i joined, to see if i could find a solution for personal use that's all i was saying. it seems hf has a much bigger negative impact on the market than some realize. im looking to find a solution for personal use 2bh. but it's proving very difficult. if 10g is an option im interested to know.
