In the end the user brags about tens of thousands of dollars in profits in Bragging Rights, so he should easily pay everyone back. Right? ;)

Kingspade - November 13, 2016, 2:30 pm

Guess he scammed me that's why he created this thread acting like he's hacked. Kinda funny he made this thread directly after I sent him the Giftcard. Posting scam report now.

exploit.c - November 13, 2016, 2:46 pm

Well, ya'll better if you sent giftcards to him, call up the company, tell them it's stolen they'll be able to freeze the funds and if they try to spend then track where and what it was spent on, etc.

the lights - November 13, 2016, 2:50 pm

Let's clear things up here, so... you buy an RDP, and log into your HF account with it? Also store BTC on a RDP? /facepalm

Complete bullshit

You seem to making "THOUSANDS" so refund everyone and fix your dumbass mistake. /thread

Where do I find login info for my RDP? I SWEAR I just got it back, Im repaying EVERYONE once I can

Backopy - November 13, 2016, 2:55 pm

Your fault you didn't have 2FA enabled. This BS about RDP and BTC, not buying it buddy. The OPs account is literally 22 days old with 140+ rep - you'd have to be crazy to trust that account with any sort of money or high-risk deals in the marketplace.

Negligence does not justify the scamming that occurred.

Seriously, typical "lets gain a bunch of rep fast make me look trusted so I can hit a big exit scam on people" lol

2FA would not have helped at all in this case

I have NO intentions to scam or gain trust. Enough discussion here.

IF YOU GOT SCAMMED: PM me ASAP please, I need all the information I can get about what happened.

If you didn't: Enough negatives, I trust that if anything happens nobody will go first.

Closing this now, I won't be dealing at all soon so if anyone messages you do NOT go first no matter what for some time until I'm sure things are secured again.

PEOPLE WHO GOT SCAMMED WILL BE REPAID.
