Thread: Trent Forum | General Discussion Board | Great Prizes

trentshire - November 13, 2016, 2:54 pm

I'm working on a thread image to advertise my forum with, until then, this post shall do!

To keep it short and sweet, TrentForum is a general discussion forum based around anything & everything. You can discuss (almost) anything and/or everything you want here with the other users here. What makes us unique is our features as well, and they are added somewhat frequently (at least as of late).

Our Forum is powered by vBulletin, cutting edging technology that provides more modifications than most MyBB communities.

To celebrate our launch we dishing out a dozen free vip subscriptions (simply reply to the thread) along with £30 in several forum competitions set to be posted shortly.

I'm looking for a small team of moderators to help establish a small community.

You don't really need additional Staff for a brand new forum, One admin should do it until you start getting tons of daily members to where you can't manage it 24/7 by yourself. I give your forum a few months tbh, I don't really see any originality.

The last forum I maintained lasted a good 2 years, I'm hopeful this one can last the same, if not more.. However, each forum you run is different.

At the moment, yes, we're similar to other forums but we're original compared to other forums being advertised as we're powered by vBulletin rather than MyBB, our VIP system provides more features, Other features include an awards system, point system, multiple themes & an arcade which most forum's don't provide.

We're also working on more features such as customized user profiles rather than the current boring design which user's have no control over.

It's neat that you're using vBulletin, haven't seen that used on an open board in awhile. I like it. ? All I see is an announcement forum though, do you plan on adding anymore? or are they hidden?

Hi SenPie, You can see the announcements, forum competitions & the lottery forum. Other forums are hidden from unregistered users and will be viewable after logging in.
