minimalist - November 14, 2016, 4:15 pm

So who is your friend and why are you posting this thread for him?

Stashyy - November 14, 2016, 4:18 pm

Second this idea. Even further, I'll bet you'd have scammed with your bought account...after all, why else would anyone buy an account? (I'll bet you were perma-denied uber on this account)

Hopefully Karma gets you both in the event you aren't banned.

EDIT: On inspection of your trust scan, your stats aren't exactly awe-inspiring either...5 unique login IPs and 3 unique login ISPs?

Riyu - November 14, 2016, 4:24 pm

You knew someone was going to buy a HF account and you decided not to report it...

Only reason the account was going to be bought was to scam.

but

Proof of your friend telling you that he got scammed and he needed you to get the scammers btc addy?

Mr Whiskey - November 14, 2016, 4:27 pm

Lmfao looks like you're going to get closed because your "friend" paid for an account, and got scammed.

Message staff to have them prove that the message he posted in your rep is not fake. Staff can see inboxes/deleted PMs.

The Silence - November 14, 2016, 4:39 pm

I'd really hope you didn't stay inside for 5 years...but this trust scan shows information pertaining to the last 30 days. How much have you traveled in the last few weeks?

Essence - November 14, 2016, 5:51 pm

Lets get this straight, a user that used to be on this forum named "The Equalizer" who was permanently banned and repkilled by Omni messaged me on Skype today asking for my HF profile link. I responded and gave him my profile link thinking that he wanted to positive rep me or something so obviously I gave it to him. He started to talk about my rep, scam reports, etc.

I asked him why he was wanting to know all of this and then he asked if he could purchase my HF account from me. Right then and there I knew this guy was probably going to try to rip people off with my account and possibly scam. (I didn't know for a 100% fact, but I had my suspicions). So then I made sure that this was against HF's rules. As you can see right here: 1. You cannot buy, sell, trade, or share your account, that it is against the rules to do this. As you can see in the screenshots that OP provided you can see TheEqualizer trying to purchase my account to "build up rep" on. Now I have no idea if he was seeking revenge on Omni and wanting to betray a lot of people on the forum since he was banned about a month ago or not, but either way selling this account was and IS against the rules.

Then this Silence guy adds me and wants to purchase website login information that I was selling and have been trying to sell for about a month now. He says he wants to purchase the site and agrees to pay. I send him my BTC address and says something along the lines of "You have $0 on this btc address I cannot trust you because you don't have previous sales with this address, can you go first". Clearly I saw that he was trying to scam me because that reason is just absolutely retarded for not going first. I replied telling him I would not go first and do not want to even talk to him if he wouldn't comply with my rules that were stated. He then asks me if I give out support for some reason once I sell the site. I told him he could get help from me by contacting me on my xmpp/jabber using essence@siph0n.net He then replies saying something like "My friend will talk to you :) enjoy!".

Proof of that ^ CLICK ME

EDIT:

I honestly think that Silence's account was bought by The Equalizer as you can see his past reps have been negative stating that the user was scamming or being suspicious which even further proves my point. His trustscan is outrages also.. (my opinion)

Mr Whiskey - November 14, 2016, 6:12 pm

Honestly Silence (OP) sounds really sketchy and very against the rules. Essence hardly seems like he wants to/will leave HF judging on the fact that he has made 900 posts in the last 4 months, and is still posting constantly to this day. This whole report smells like bullshit to me.

? Don't thank me, I'm not vouching for your innocence. I'm just giving my two cents on this whole situation and how unlikely it is ?
