Thread: The Suicide Hotline doesn't fuck around

Lor?d - November 15, 2016, 4:43 am

So my brother and I were playing BO2 at like 3 in the morning and we ran into a guy with a number in his emblem and he always calls them.

Turned out to be the suicide hotline. He said fuck it and decided not to hang up. He ended up telling them he tried to jump in front of a car then hung up.

Tbh kinda thought it was in bad taste but w/e.

Well about 10 minutes later they called him back. He blocked his number but I assume they have a way of getting around it. I know it's possible to call back the last number somehow or w/e.

They call back about 3 times and he goes full bitch mode and turns off his phone. About an hour later he turns it back on and has like 12 missed calls. Then he gets a call from the local police.

Now the weird thing is we all have numbers from another state and never updated the address for our bill. But yet they managed to find our current state?

Well anyway this chick is on the phone with him asking for his name and address over and over saying the cops are on there way and she wants him to stay on the phone.

I told him to just hang up and if they're asking for his info they obviously don't have it or they'd be here. It's been about 30 minutes now and he's freaking out.

He reset his phone and pulled out his sim card.

I told him there's no reason to be tripping but he's not buying it.

Moral of the story? Don't call the suicide hotline unless you want the police involved. Even if you're looking for legit help. Call a good friend or family member. The suicide hotline will just ring the police.

Biker BoyZ - November 15, 2016, 4:45 am

Fuck me, this shows that they are dedicated in saving lifes. But damn, Don't mess with them if you got nothing wrong.

test - November 15, 2016, 4:47 am

I'm all for fucking with people over the phone but the Suicide Hotline? Really? Of course they are going to take every call seriously, they have an obligation to. Hope you and your Brother don't get in too much shit for wasting the police's time. If they even show up, that is.

Dredd - November 15, 2016, 4:48 am

They rang the police since he hung up and obviously in such a dramatic way they thought something serious was going to happen. If you just talked to them and played it out they wouldn't have rang the police you spoons.

Make sure you're armed with a cell phone and point at the cops if you want it fast and painless.

Next time don't be a dick and waste valuable resources. The rep could have been following up another valid report instead of your bs Honestly though if I was looking for help and trying to remain anonymous and I ended up having the cops calling me i'd feel like shit.

Yeah don't get me wrong I think it's pretty shitty he did it. I would have hung up as soon as I heard the recorded message. But he said fuck it and kept going.
Honestly doubt they'll show up though.

Not my fault he didn't hang up though.

well they wouldn't phone the police if you hadn't done what you did, blocking the number and not talking it through with them, then turning your phone off. Imagine your the operator taking the call on the hotline, you're gonna think they've just killed themselves.....

some people man.....

Yeah I got that. Tbh just felt like posting a thread on this little situation.

I'm pretty pissed at him for not hanging up when he heard it was the suicide hotline. He insisted on fucking with them.

His voice when the cops called was priceless. He was like "I've been on xbox all night I swear I never jumped in front of a car".

Hey man say whatever you want, but I know it's wrong to fuck with certain people. I usually draw the line with friends/family. "Prank" Calling anyone else is just a dick move and wastes time that could be used for something useful.

But his voice when he was on the phone with the cops was so fucking priceless. He sounded like he was about to cry. And honestly if the cops pull up i'm not defending his ass. What he did was wrong. The consequences of it are 10/10

That's what I was thinking.

The only thing that makes sense to me is the hotline called the police around where our numbers are registered and they looked into it further to find where it is now.

The Supreme Leader - November 15, 2016, 5:05 am

Pretty fucked up to prank the suicide hotline in the first place

I hope the cops talk to his mommy

Larceny - November 15, 2016, 5:06 am

Can confirm. Authorities don't fucking around with suicide. My mother called them, from across the country, falsely accused me of a suicidal threat, and within 15 minutes I was in a cop car heading to the police station, to be transferred to a psychiatric hospital for a week. Fuck man.

Yeah and that can be a good and bad thing.

Because if the cops are calling before they get there saying they're on their way that could push the person over the edge. (What could have happened in this situation had it been real)

Yeah, but maybe just put them in a room at the station for a day until they have proof.

Now I'm barred from joining the military (my plan since I was little. No idea what I'm doing now) because of a narcissistic mother.

Btw, if you call me with a blocked number I can still see the number, it's easy.

HAHAHAHAHAHAHA oh my fucking god this shit is priceless.

But nah, if you tell them you're gonna commit suicide and have an actual plan for it, then they're required by law to call your local police and tell them what's going on. Simply for the fact that it's their job to prevent suicide, and if they know about it and know they can't do anything to help you, they're required to call the police so nothing back falls on them legally.

This reminds me of americans pressing 911 and asking for pizza (yes that actually happens)

I think its bad to waste the time of people that could help someone in actual danger of suicide. If you want to troll guys, then at least target some ppl that deserve it

Mom - November 15, 2016, 8:43 am damn, never knew that it was that serious, my old school was always advertising it because there was about 2 suicides last year, and it was crazy af. Now that I moved to a new school I haven't seen a ton of advertisements for suicide hotlines but they are out there.

That's a crazy story OP, teaches you a lesson not to mess with suicide, lol. It's like calling the police, and telling them its a prank and hanging up, they will find you, and they will deal with you no matter the situation.

Yea the suicide hotline is really serious when it comes to people and suicide attempts.. I remember about a month ago, my mates an I were just chilling in the neighborhood and then we noticed a guy in a hoody who was pacing back and forth on the opposite side of the street.. but we thought nothing of it and eventually walked into another direction and was gone. Suddenly the police showed up and saw us so they approached and inquired about a guy with a hoody and they had his picture inside their car. At that point we didn't know what was going on and who he was.. but the police informed us he called in saying he was going to commit suicide so we directed them in the last known direction we saw him going..

To this day, I dont know if hes OK.. crazy.
