Thread: Best way to promote a YouTube channel?

qbOFFICIAL - November 15, 2016, 12:32 pm

I am a small YouTuber.

I mainly vlogg and during a few of my vlogg's I have bumped into people and the ask "what its for" and there has been a good 2 or 3 people that have followed up and told me I should start promoting my channel more.

That got me thinking what is the best way to promote a YouTube channel without being a dick?

Prophet Banana - November 15, 2016, 12:37 pm

Try <http://sharree.com> to share and promote your videos.

Kingspade - November 15, 2016, 12:47 pm

Post one of your vlogs on this thread I wanna see what a double OG l33t haxzor triple OG virgin looks like.

I'm not sure if you know who GradeAUnderA is but when he released his number someone called and told him that they Vlog, Grade's advise was to do something unique to start to get your channel some-what known as people don't tend to just watch random peoples vlogs (no offence), if they aren't already known.

Caliban - November 15, 2016, 1:03 pm

You need to have charisma or be unique in some way, why else would people want to watch your videos?

Else you could pay a big youtuber to promote your channel, or buy shout outs. If you dont have the money you can work on clickbait videos or calling out big youtubers and start a drama, this will get you a lot of attention.

Kingspade - November 15, 2016, 1:10 pm

Just got done watching a few videos, do you always eat eggs every morning? But the video quality is good and looks like a professionally made vlog. Good work. Btw did mommy and daddy buy you that car? Also lemme know if you got the job at ace hardware.

Thank you. I try to eat eggs every morning haha. The car is my moms old car not mine, but I use it every day, and I am very appreciative of that. I didnt end up going to apply but I am going to go in soon.

I totally agree. I have been trying to come up with something unique to do that will help. Right now i just vlogg because it helps me learn to use my camera and get better with the editing program I use and also because its very fun to me. I dont know what I want to do for my channel though.

I do see this being a very popular thing now. Calling out bigger YouTubers. But hey if it works it works.

Actually not bad. How old are you?

Kingspade - November 15, 2016, 1:44 pm

If you want to go viral do the fruit ninja challenge and chop a finger off by making it look like a accident I'll gurantee you to go viral and get tons of subs.

Frankey - November 15, 2016, 1:48 pm

Just start optimizing your videos more for the sexy SEO rankings. You can even invest like 2$ into Google AdWords to get a short video commercial out there.

SEO? I use adsense I think. I am still trying to figure out how to sort all the revenue sharing stuff out. I have no clue what im doing and Im honestly thing of just joining a partnership network to make everything easier but $2 and I can have my video played as an add????????!!! Really?

pcanningg - November 15, 2016, 2:08 pm

Social media.... also use popular trending tags under your videos and that will boost the views, just pray some of the views stick around sweatpants - November 15, 2016, 2:09 pm

I heard posting your channel on decently sized forums will get you some traffic

Thank you! by commenting on other peoples channels do you mean literally just commenting or promoting?

Darvis2112 - November 15, 2016, 9:39 pm

I don't have much knowledge with YouTube, but there isn't a way to promote your videos/channel directly through YT, similar to Facebook?

(I promote several FB pages, that's why I'm curious haha)

Indexae - November 15, 2016, 9:59 pm

Be a girl, show breasts - boom several million subs incoming.

Really?Ye Adsense us the best way to monetize your videos. Networks are basically the same bit then you get linked to their AdSense account and then the network takes a percentage of your Money 20% for example.

Yes, you can have a video ad for a few bucks daily. It won't show much but a few interested people seeing your ad would definitely check out your channel. You just have to target your ad precisely.

BR?ND?N - November 16, 2016, 12:04 am

Keep at it, and make friends who also YouTube. Seriously it helps. I'am a YouTuber and if you ever wanna talk about it, hmu on here.

Not really. You can comment on videos, when you post a good comment people get led to your channel. I done it before where I had a top comment and then saw increased activity. That channel is ded now though, but still probably gets attention.

Likensation.com, i used that site and it boosted my videos sky high, it's free too, i would give it a try if i were you.

Brian Dean from Backlinko has some really great tips on SEO'ing YouTube videos. Check it out here: <http://backlinko.com/how-to-rank-youtube-videos>

The guy is an SEO guru and I have learnt an awful lot from him. I used his skyscraper technique on a website I was developing and it really did work very well. I don't make YouTube videos but I've got a lot of faith in this guy. Hope the guide helps you as much as they've helped me ?

Torc - November 16, 2016, 4:39 am

I would recommend not being a vlogger when you don't have anything interesting to show. People like Roman Atwood get away with staying home and vlogging with nothing interesting to show on some days because they had a huge following before they started vlogging. It's pretty hard to become a successful vlogger when your vlogs consist of cooking an egg, a time lapse of pushups, and talking to your brother. It's not interesting. Sorry. If you do it just for the fun of it, then go ahead and keep doing it, but if you're looking to make YouTube a career, you're not going to have success with the quality of content you currently put out.

EDIT: Watched your "CUBS WIN THE WORLD SERIES" video, and that is a decent one, but its really short. You should make more vlogs with that type of atmosphere but more of it if you want to become a successful vlogger.

The Host - November 16, 2016, 4:56 am

Not bad videos dude. Keep it up. Don't do it as a career now or you will try to hard and end up failing. Do it as fun/hobby and if it picks up it picks up.
