Thread: Jailbroken iPhone won't completely turn on

Silfy - November 16, 2016, 1:51 pm

Looking to get some help with this, my iPhone will have the Apple logo as it turns on, then shuts off right away, won't show up in iTunes. Looking for a solution, hmu if you'd be able to help.

Does it loop over and over? If it does, I may be able to help you.

No it will turn on like my phone is powering on, then shut off again. I've tried to start it in safe mode, no luck.

Have you tried putting the phone in recovery mode?

I have no idea how to do that, looking it up now.

It's in recovery mode right now, looking for a way to restore it was clicking "Update" and "Restore" both don't work.

Downloading an iOS10.ispw , hopefully this will work, very optimistic as this is the first thing that has worked all day.

Update; connecting to iTunes, I needed to update my iTunes. It says I need to Update, Restore, whatever but whenever it's about to finish it gives me an error which is really pissing me off considering my Internet sucks ass. Any more help?

If this doesn't work it may be a hardware issue.

When I have this issue, disconnecting the battery works every time. Try it, if that won't help, post here we'll figure it out.

You said you're getting an iOS 10 IPSW? Keep in mind the only working (signed) iOS 10 version is 10.3.3 and is non-jailbreakable at the moment. You could either fix your phone with the iOS 10.3.3 flash and lose the jailbreak or sacrifice not having a functional phone for a bit and find a fix.
