What happened before the keyboard stopped working?

Did you install anything recently? Installed Windows updates? What kind of keyboard is it?

its wireless comfort 5000, i just woke the computer from sleep mode.
i believe i`ve corrupted the registry by trying to delete from controlset

I've heard that system restore is capable of restoring the register, you might give that a shot.
You can restore it to the most recent backup before it stopped working.

You just need to re-enter the keys you deleted; or like the user above said system restore
