You should be able to log in from your normal network and it will go back. If I understand it correctly, it only considers your last IP. I did the same thing once and when I re-connected to my home network and logged back in it went back to 0.

Open CMD in administrator and do:
route add (enter hackforums ip)

And now you can use ra4wvpn and have an exception for hackforums to use your real ip.

Oh hey, it worked!

Thanks
