Thread: Backend Developer - CSGO Gambling - Import HLTV Stats\(Closed\)

Phixel - November 23, 2016, 10:08 pm

Okay let me start this thread with this this system will be fresh, new and unique if you aren't an experienced developer, leave the thread. Any attempts to use leaked work or not code in full the extent of what I need will result in reversed payments and a scam report Okay.. So, I'm a website designer, graphic designer and a marketer. I'm starting a CSGO Project with a twist. For you to be hired for this job, you must be passionate, able to work, and not greedy. Partnerships are possible but unlikely, whereas a share in the profit is accepted (also willing to pay after completion but it will be considerably less than if you stayed with the project).

About the Project;
Completely unique
Nobody has ever done this
Insanely profitable
Successful in the real world and other online sports

What I need;
Statistics imported from HLTV or similar site
A full system based on the type of gambling we do
You will not release any information on the project or idea
You will sign an NDA agreement to not release information on the project
You will remain anonymous, unless entering in a partnership or investment, if either you will be on company record
You must be 18+ with at least 3 years coding
Full portfolio of experience

Do not contact me if you're a scrub looking to make a quick buck.

You're going to get yourself banned if you keep harassing me.
Why, he didn't harass you?

It's a good thing to point out, which you clearly "forgot" to mention.

I would definitely be interested in this but unfortunately your work ethic doesn't seem to hold up after reading some threads about you. Would you mind clarifying the situation on why so many people have had bad deals?
