

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Curious About Giving Vouch Copies

FamousHater - November 28, 2016, 5:55 am

why is it that a when members offer vouch copies of their ebook/service/product they give a vouch copy to the first member who asks instead of waiting and finding a legit member who will actually give a quality review?

not a 5 word vouch review like "Best Book ive ever read" just curious about this so if your one of these members who gives away vouch copies to the first member who asks then please answer in thread.

Crystallize. - November 28, 2016, 5:57 am

Maybe because they asked first? I don't like giving vouch copies to be honest for whatever I sell unless the member that will be reviewing the product is HQ.

jobi - November 28, 2016, 6:00 am

(Nov 28, 2016 06:57 AM)Crystallize. Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Maybe because they asked first? I don't like giving vouch copies to be honest for whatever I sell unless the member that will be reviewing the product is HQ.

this, and most of the time they have a friend on standby to "ask for a vouch" or just vouch as soon as they make a sales thread.

FamousHater - November 28, 2016, 6:00 am

(Nov 28, 2016 06:57 AM)Crystallize. Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Maybe because they asked first? I don't like giving vouch copies to be honest for whatever I sell unless the member that will be reviewing the product is HQ.

That's the point?

Why do U feel obligated to give a vouch copy to first guy who asked? Instead of waiting for someone reputable or someone that will give a lengthy review instead of a 3 word review?

Squidward - November 28, 2016, 6:03 am

Because they most likely copied the ebook themselves so all they care about is getting as many vouches as possible.

Ebook sellers are trying to fool new, naive users... not upgraded individuals who know better.

oscast - November 28, 2016, 6:05 am

(Nov 28, 2016 07:00 AM)FamousHater Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) That's the point?

Why do U feel obligated to give a vouch copy to first guy who asked? Instead of waiting for someone reputable or someone that will give a lengthy review instead of a 3 word review?

What do you consider reputable

Squidward - November 28, 2016, 6:06 am

Also consider that these ebook people often create new accounts for themselves and trade vouches as well.

Energy Wizard - November 28, 2016, 6:06 am

From what I've seen the HQ members that offer to take a vouch copy end up taking a few days to end up posting a review, this delays all the sales. It is faster to give it to someone who is upgraded but not the most reputable member.

There's also the point made by someone else that the OP usually has a friend there ready to take the (one and only) vouch copy.

B?ker - November 28, 2016, 6:15 am

I think it's the entire you are an upgraded member the new regular member will believe it regardless etc

SIM-403479 - November 28, 2016, 6:55 am

I would personally ask someone to review it for me rather than give it to the first.

FamousHater - November 28, 2016, 9:10 am

(Nov 28, 2016 07:05 AM)kaptid Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) What do you consider reputable Won't say at wasnt point was making.

Just asking why do people feel obligated to give vouch Copy to first member who asks

FamousHater - December 8, 2016, 4:08 pm

any other comments from sellers that do this?

Flared - December 8, 2016, 4:09 pm

Because ebooks are a scam 90% of the time lol

ddosfun - December 8, 2016, 4:16 pm

(Nov 28, 2016 07:00 AM)FamousHater Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) That's the point?

Why do U feel obligated to give a vouch copy to first guy who asked? Instead of waiting for someone reputable or someone that will give a lengthy review instead of a 3 word review?

You can just get some free bumps and have your topic up by doing this I guess, also an emty stall does not sell.

FamousHater - December 8, 2016, 4:57 pm

(Dec 8, 2016 05:16 PM)ddosfun Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) You can just get some free bumps and have your topic up by doing this I guess, also an emty stall does not sell.no people arent gonna give a vouch copy for a post bump lol

FamousHater - March 18, 2017, 10:33 pm

figured would revive thread to see what more users have to say about this

Mom - March 18, 2017, 10:36 pm

Meh, I've seen a lot of people do that, but there will be those occasions where the seller will give them a format for vouching, and they just use that (and I think that all sellers should switch to a vouch format).

FamousHater - March 18, 2017, 10:51 pm

(Mar 18, 2017 10:36 PM)aftermarket Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Meh, I've seen a lot of people do that, but there will be those occasions where the seller will give them a format for vouching, and they just use that (and I think that all sellers should switch to a vouch format).Yea agreed. just seems like user are in hurry these days to give a vouch copy out no matter the vouchers stats. The real question i should of asked is what percent of vouches on this forum are indeed legit.

Riddick - March 19, 2017, 3:25 am

It's probably down to the fact that the user asked first and the seller wants the vouch/review to be posted quickly in an attempt to boost sales. I agree though, being patient and getting a vouch from a more trusted user is probably worth doing and will generate more sales long term.

SIM-3498481 - March 19, 2017, 4:49 am

All likely possibilities here. My personal opinion is that first post is likely a friend who is just trying to help them boost sales. Speaking of vouch copies though, I'm planning on selling a new product soon and if you are interested in gaming and would be willing to review the product; gaming accounts with new/high end games, hit me up in PM for a vouch copy.