Greetings From Tom Cruise to HackForums ,

Do you Watch Cricket and What is your Favorite Team ?

SIM-403479 - November 28, 2016, 7:27 pm

I don't watch cricket but I know many people who play the sport.

It's not a very easy sport to watch because it takes so long. 20/20 is reasonable.

I don't think I have EVER watched it. Not televised here in the United States at least I don't think so. We do occasionally get Rugby on TV, when it's like a World Championship or something.

Couldn't even tell you how to play Cricket or what you wear or use.

I also watch Rugby and NBA, and I got my First Negative feedback on my profile for Making this thread?

Anyone else watching this sports ? ~ If you do so what you have to say about this sport ?

Windows 98 - November 30, 2016, 2:46 pm

I've never watched it before. Never played it, either. Seems pretty interesting, though. I might take a look.

you must be talking about test matches and 50 50 over matches they take lots of hours to finish

I was a good follower of the sport. But the things like match fixing and all stopped me to watch it as I used to be, in interest.

same and 20 20 games are more fun and there is action in it than test matches

TempoWriter - December 3, 2016, 10:28 am

I haven't seen of any channels that broadcast it in the US.

stealth13 - December 10, 2016, 10:28 pm

Like any sport, its a sport... means people like it because it is the way it is, because it takes almost all of your day watching this game.

Classic is Test match which runs for 5 days, however the new generation game is more inclined towards 20-20 matches for their commercial success.

for true fans its like a classic game coming to an end. but what the hell...this could be the evolution that this game may have to go through to survive!!!
