This is among the shortest "anime" I've watched. Its 12 eps that are 30 secs each (hence 6 min to watch it all haha) and the plot is given in bits here and there. I believe they were potentially promos for a video game of the same name that were shown over the course of a few weeks, however you can watch them as a single series. Art & music is decent, however given how short they are there is little to no plot and are barely able to grasp character names, and so forth. Still if you got 6 min to waste then this is the anime for you ;)
