Hey there, so I have the possibility to buy this Canon 40D for 200€.

I think its a good way to start with, my youtube channel will be about vlog and pokemon go related.

What do you guys think? 200€ is in the range of my budget at this moment, and its crucial for the products I'm developing at the moment

If your content is unique then it's worth the investment, YouTube is actually good money.

Good luck doing Pokemon Go, it's kind of dying out. Vlogging is good, as long as you got a good voice and an entertaining life.

I make a decent amount from youtube,

Honestly, I recommend you just piggy back off someone. Many do it with success. GL

Pokemon Go isn't dying at all, is just performing as should be for players that enjoy the game. Also the hype will come back again.

As of voice I have no issues with

Thanks, money is always good what I want the most is to help people in life and in the game, I may create two different channels in the same account so it doesn't get annoying for the different fan base
