Thread: Decent ways of making money online?

Sagacious - December 6, 2016, 12:51 pm

Hey guys so I'm fairly new here, and I've been seeing countless threads about people making large amounts of money online.

What are some decent ways of making money online? So far I've looked at E-Whoring but I'd rather not get into that. Can you guys recommend anything?

Thank you in advance for the help. ?

Learn how to program, find a cool idea and sell it.

I'm in the process of learning that, however, it would require about a year for me to learn a language thoroughly and apply it to create an application.

Do you have an advise for the short term?

None the less, I'm going to develop my own applications as soon as I'm able to program. ?

If it's important for you to be on the right side of the law then there's no easy and quick way for beginners.

Find something cool that you want to make, then learn how to make it as you go. That's what I'm doing with userscripts and I'm learning a lot.
