I have not done graphics in a while because of studies, not planing on returning to it any soon either. But had this old-ish thread design that I edited a bit. I probably will not use it when I return to graphics, but If you still wanna give feedback on it, feel free to.

your design styles are so fukin neat

AvessoVision - December 9, 2016, 11:18 am

Looks pretty neat. I love the almost flat design (which is very popular this year) you should keep pursuing it.

Would like for you to learn the difference in the font weight for titles and filling text such as description or paragraphs.

Work around 5 color picks and divide them in such a way to not over-flood the whole design with a single color. A dominant color is important, but within the eye-catching range. Font picks are also important. You should try Work Sans and/or Montserrat.

Would love to see more progress with these.

Cheers

Darn, what's wrong with Raleway?

Classicz - December 9, 2016, 9:02 pm

Very clean, I like the simple animations.

A bit too bold-ish, looks more like a medium semi-bold work sans.

You should keep your description font pleasant and easy to follow. Some tutorials will go a long way. As well as limiting your text width (The place to boost your sales section) to half since most people stop reading halfway through the paragraph. Making two small ones will ensure that your info will be read.

Cheers

Might edit it from bold to medium or regular. Cheers.

First impression; It looks cool.

When I keep looking it gets boring, there is only blue, black, blue, black.

I like colors and you should too, make use of them. Make it creative instead if a block with text here and there.

Perhaps add pictures with good effects?

SIM-3386134 - December 10, 2016, 5:56 am

I literally have no suggestion for improvements. I absolutely love that design, the fluid animations, colour scheme and how you have done the blue background, transparent box to solid rounded cornered box.

I'll be stalking your designs for inspiration on my own work.

Yy I know, it's a hella boring design. Didnt spend time on finding a bg for the darker blocks. Cheers

Thanks for the feedback.
