Thread: 1080p Alternatives?

Tsunfire - December 10, 2016, 5:39 am

Subbed would be nice. And yes, I'm that impatient and picky. I need make some collages and watch some 1080p quality anime, so if you guys have any sites that support this thus far, that'd be great.

(while KA is under server upgrades of course)

May I recommend <http://www.masterani.me/> (I built this website) the recent released anime will have 1080p (it takes a while to encode so be patient it won't be 1080p if it just got released)

We don't have as huge of a anime library as kissanime but we will try to anything that's requested.

There's multiple KissAnime's but I use this one: <http://www.kiss-anime.me/>

PS if your uploading to YouTube there is no EYE noticeable difference between 720p and 1080p love the site, great alternative to kissanime {if kissanime is down/having problems [its currently offline]} anime is in great quality too.

streaming is on par with kissanime (in terms of speed, [downloading], sometimes a small bottleneck but i dont mind, as long as i can watch it offline)

it has about 90% of my current watchlist [latest episodes]1 tip for anime quality reconison please put it in the file name so users know wich version they download, not fileX-1.mp4 but fileX 360p.mp4 where can you request new anime for the site?

ironically i trust your site more than shady sites wich have virus warnings. made by some unknown person.

since whois.domain has more data about your site than those shady ones. (all the data they have is public data) that link is made by the same "*SSH*L*S" that made kissanime.io

<http://whois.domaintools.com/kiss-anime.me>

<http://whois.domaintools.com/kissanime.io>

the .IO domain is known to serve malware, and virussus.

since they are the same "person/hosts" that made the other (acording to whois data) just check the data, it is many random gibberish, that makes no sense,

Instead of watching "1080p quality anime" you should maybe focus on your education man
