Thread: Currency Exchange Policy

Omniscient - December 11, 2016, 2:33 pm

From now on all CE exchanges including gift cards must be in the CE forum which is now moved to a subforum of the Premium Sellers Section and it does require Ub3r to create a thread.

Help Docs and section rules are all updated.

Violate the policy and you will get warned or banned.

A very much needed change, thanks.

minimalist - December 11, 2016, 2:54 pm

Great and much needed change. Too many L33t members creating new accounts, exchanging to gain quick reputation, and then scamming out. Thanks.

Thanks.I actually agree even though i had a thread in trader topics where i was selling BTC i think this will really help with the scammers. There were a lot of sketchy L33ts that were scamming new users there who didnt know any better.

Tid?es - December 11, 2016, 3:31 pm

All I gotta do now is wait for my warning level to go down so I can apply :')

What about the members that become Ub3r after being approved and then go on a scamming spree?

Well Administrator team did much what they could to moderate possible scams now no people can tell someone's present thoughts . Anyone can suddenly do exit scam so risk is always there whenever you do trade in internet virtually and you have to accept that fact . Its not possible moderation of scam report as HF is not a small community . I hope may be in near future HF may have implement of some kind of limitation like Verified Exchanger membership with High security deposit in order to start exchange service in the community according to the security deposit provided by user , he/she will be allowed to trade of the same amount he did deposit to security , once he close service he can request his security deposit back . But still this requires lot of effort and good amount of people to manage and i don't think HF will want to do that as this is not currency exchange focused community and again its all depend on Omni whether he like to do some more safety about currency exchange or not :) ; otherwise you have to accept the fact of risk for online trade and we are thankful for this decision cause Uber memberships are at least manually approved , so if anyone looking to scam he/she might has to wait before he gets approved for Uber actually .

grail - December 12, 2016, 10:13 pm

Thank you for this but at the same time I got finessed out of being able to sell my steam currency ;(

Hiper - December 12, 2016, 11:08 pm

I've only just joined this forum recently and wasn't really sure why there were two sections for selling currency.

I used to sell currency on other forums all the time but noticed how many people try to scam in the trader section so ended up closing my btc shop before this rule even came in.

This was definitely needed I much prefer looking in the currency exchange and trading with more reputable users.

Although I can't post there yet my self I am sure in the near future when I meet all the criteria I will apply for Ub3R and advertise my self eventually.

I agree with this decision but there are more exit scammers than there is Ub3r's imo.

Seems like a nice implementation. Stay safe everyone and be cautious at all times dealing on HF marketplace. Cheers from Marcus 1738 Anti-Scam Society leader!
