Thread: NasTek - MyBB Content & Resources | Website Development | Interviews!

Nasyr - December 12, 2016, 3:43 pm

I have reconstructed my own website so that I can contribute a better understanding and assistance in Website Development and the MyBB Project.

The changes have come in which I made my original forum secondary for support purposes and the primary a blog for releasing content online.

I will be uploading resources and tutorials for the MyBB Project. Tutorials and releases for the Website Development. Interviews with webmasters.

In the future I do hope to expand the website in many different ways and aspects to offer a grander opportunity to support others in need of it.

Just wanna clarify, are you building up a 'team' that'll be releasing themes/plugins under your name? If not what are the advantages of using your site and not the current MyBB one?

May register however if you're releasing your own custom content

Darkwin - December 12, 2016, 4:58 pm

You should grow this website by following in the footsteps of other mybb resource sites :) create some unique plugin/mods and give them away then charge a membership fee for HQ mods/plugins.

Nevertheless best of luck!

Yes I have few plugin creators and MyBB themers working alongside myself for this and will be developing these and releasing them from our website. We won't offer support from anywhere but this website. A lot of the stuff on the MyBB website is pretty simple stuff which gets overloaded and the more intense and harder questions ignored. We aim to be able to answer all of these quickly and find a solution with a number of years experience and most probably having ran into these issues ourselves.

Yes that is our intention to create and release but it will not be subscription based, free to download and free to use but only support given on our website. We won't help on other community forums with your issues.

Interesting set up. I suggest you to get a better theme going bud.

Best of luck.

Looking forward to seeing what this project has to offer. Best of luck Nasyr.

If you're not planning on making custom plugins and giving it for a fee, you're wasting your time here. On the other side, site looks pretty clean.

Good luck.

Well at the moment we want to create and release for free to give a taste. In the future we might create more premium plugins and offer an upgrade option to have access to these and also for support on these. At the moment everything will be free since it's not primarily about the money side of things more the content based features of the matter.

Our latest theme has been released to our Beta Team for review. Updated the original post with some previews.

Killer Kamal - December 18, 2016, 12:29 pm

So actually you make forums for people? Correct me if i'm wrong.

We create MyBB themes and plugins and release them. We also offer premium support to all members. We do not create a MyBB forum for people. We help with errors you encounter.

WikiBoy - December 21, 2016, 5:03 am

We now offer free MyBB Forum Setup and Configuring the plugins and themes .

Nasyr - December 23, 2016, 12:14 pm

Updated thread with plugins we have released.

I really like his interview style, website design, and overall concept of his site.

Good luck with NasTek!
