

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Flash Drive - Alive or Extinct?

coolkoolguy - December 13, 2016, 12:12 pm

Are flash drives really worth buying and what value does it have? if so, how many times have you guys ever gotten 1 and do you ever think it will possibly 1 day die out?

Low Quality. - December 13, 2016, 12:14 pm

Very useful, physically having your files is much safer than the alternative of just using cloud storage.

memory - December 13, 2016, 12:15 pm

Good question(s):

- 1) Yes - storage and convenience
- 2) I've gotten one over 9000 times
- 3) It's possible anything can die out but flash memory is becoming increasingly popular.

What about you?

coolkoolguy - December 13, 2016, 12:20 pm

(Dec 13, 2016 01:15 PM)?????? Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Good question(s):

- 1) Yes - storage and convenience
- 2) I've gotten one over 9000 times
- 3) It's possible anything can die out but flash memory is becoming increasingly popular.

What about you?

Lost 3, Don't hav 1 anymore but hoping to get 1, Just today, I found out the value as I realised that I would have to upload to one drive then download again at my home. Ya, I believe it will possibly never die out but since people buy 1, what is the need to buy another?

Inked ?Feather - December 13, 2016, 12:25 pm

Back at it again, faggot.

Mr. Robot - December 13, 2016, 12:26 pm

Yes, they are great for bootable media and I use them for all sorts of operating systems and tools to easily move between machines.

coolkoolguy - December 13, 2016, 12:41 pm

(Dec 13, 2016 01:25 PM)Inked ?Feather Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Back at it again, friend.
as always best buddy old pal ?

(Dec 13, 2016 01:26 PM)Mr. Robot Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Yes, they are great for bootable media and I use them for all sorts of operating systems and tools to easily move between machines.
but would you buy another 1?

05317832892 - December 13, 2016, 12:43 pm

(Dec 13, 2016 01:26 PM)Mr. Robot Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Yes, they are great for bootable media and I use them for all sorts of operating systems and tools to easily move between machines.

This ^^

If your a dank hacker you can put kali on one.

A NEW ERA... - December 13, 2016, 12:43 pm

Physical copy of my data > Cloud bullshit

coolkoolguy - December 13, 2016, 12:44 pm

(Dec 13, 2016 01:43 PM)Jacoobzy Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Physical copy of my data > Cloud bullshit
I agree but wouldn't the downside be that if you lose the usb, you are screwed af?

Mi2414 - December 13, 2016, 12:56 pm

(Dec 13, 2016 01:44 PM)coolkoolguy Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I agree but wouldn't the downside be that if you lose the usb, you are screwed af?

Most people now days have multiple backups if they need it. I have multiple flash drives and drives and I'm glad I do.

coolkoolguy - December 13, 2016, 1:06 pm

(Dec 13, 2016 01:56 PM)Amidst Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Most people now days have multiple backups if they need it. I have multiple flash drives and drives and I'm glad I do.

bruh, your prepared and this info is very reassuring.

Mr. Robot - December 13, 2016, 1:11 pm

(Dec 13, 2016 01:41 PM)coolkoolguy Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) as always best buddy old pal ?

but would you buy another 1?

Of course I would, I have around 20 USB thumbdrives currently and do need some more.

yotoprules - December 13, 2016, 1:26 pm

(Dec 13, 2016 01:26 PM)Mr. Robot Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Yes, they are great for bootable media and I use them for all sorts of operating systems and tools to easily move between machines.

Yes, this is the main reason I use them too, mainly for installing operating systems as it's much faster and better in general than a writable DVD.

Korvo - December 13, 2016, 1:58 pm

I love my flash drives. I have multiple for different uses & I also have an external hard drive for bulk storage. I don't think flash drives will be dead anytime soon, they will just get smaller in physical size and more portable.

Maxie - December 13, 2016, 2:00 pm

As it haven't been added, there is also interesting exploits that can be pulled off via USB-drives.

Also, rescue drives saved me multiple times, lmao.