Maybe the most of you would be agree that TabControls are most common controls that make projects look better.

Here is another TabControl that I made a while ago and I decided to post here and I have no idea if someone would created this before cause I'm a bit new here.

it contains two TabControls with text and with image only

Here is How it looks like

That is a really nice tab control. Nice job man. You don't dispose of your brushes but other than that the code and control looks pretty good.
