Thread: Interview For a Second Job

?Shady - December 17, 2016, 6:57 pm

So I currently have a full-time job at an electric supply warehouse. What I do is; Manufacture light fixtures, manufacture BX wires, receive orders & help customers. I worked there for a little over a year now & was promoted to supervisor about three months ago. They're working on promoting me to manager as well which is great.

I recently started looking for a second job though because I have a kid on the way & could use the money. So I started looking around & got a call to come in for an interview on Thursday when I get out of work from my full-time job. They're willing to work around my current schedule. The interview is for a financial company. If I'm hired, they will help me grow within their company & help me get a license as well.

I'm completely hype about this & I'm going to kick this interviews ass. Gonna have to dress up spiffy as well because the work attire is business casual. I can't wait to see what this place is like.

Congrats man. I just recently got a new job also at a bank! Super excited about it. They are sending me out to their headquarters to train for 2 weeks - all expenses paid, such as the hotel, the drive/flight over there, and food!

Had some great luck recently!

why are you having a kid when you make less than like $50k or however much it is?
does your spouse work?

Why is that any of your concern of why I'm having a fucking kid? I'm going to take care of my family regardless. Also yeah she does, not like that's any of your concern either.
