

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: 2 screens

Safen - December 19, 2016, 5:01 am

Had 2 screens at home so why not add them together but when I do the programs I use only shows in one screen and the other is empty but has same background Picture.

How can I open different programs on the screens like ytube on one and facebook on the other?

DreadPirateDrake - December 19, 2016, 5:03 am

This tutorial sort of explains it.

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=YI7U4uGZE5M>

It's a setting on the computer that tells the monitors how to behave. If you have a different OS than Win 10 just look up "How to set up dual monitors on (INSERT OS)"

Safen - December 19, 2016, 5:04 am

Im going to check it out and I have windows 7

cr34te - December 19, 2016, 5:48 am

Have a look at the program UltraMon it's got a lot of advanced dual display settings really useful.

'Ben - December 19, 2016, 7:35 am

(Dec 19, 2016 06:04 AM)Safen Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Im going to check it out and I have windows 7

I just plugged mine in and it worked right away. Download a taskbar program and you're good to go, I use <https://sourceforge.net/projects/dualmonitortb/>

.eXe - December 19, 2016, 10:26 am

(Dec 19, 2016 06:01 AM)Safen Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Had 2 screens at home so why not add them together but when I do the programs I use only shows in one screen and the other is empty but has same background Picture.

How can I open different programs on the screens like ytube on one and facebook on the other?

Drag one window to the other screen...

Why do I feel this is a bad troll?

Safen - December 19, 2016, 10:29 am

Will it work on a fullhd online game like csgo to play with both screens? One of mine is not opening and the other is all fine.

deathkill - December 19, 2016, 10:46 am

Just google if CS:GO supports dual monitors or not. I believe it does, just have to configure it correctly. <- Google should also help you out on that.

Lucrid - December 19, 2016, 10:48 am

You should be able to seamlessly drag windows from one screen to another. Go into your display settings and configure which side the secondary monitor is on.

.eXe - December 19, 2016, 2:43 pm

(Dec 19, 2016 11:29 AM)Safen Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Will it work on a fullhd online game like csgo to play with both screens? One of mine is not opening and the other is all fine.

If you try to use a game like CS:GO on 2 monitors, the crosshair is going to be between the screens. You're going to want to get a third before anything.