Good luck getting an offer that appeals you though.

Uh Estibot shows the value of a domain by calculating its previous sales essentially, along with monthly searches and so on. However, this domain should actually be worth more than Estibot shows, as it's just a sick name for a brand honestly.

Estibot is a joke, it's always wrong. People don't buy domains based on what some bot calculates using useless historical stats, they buy domains to fit their interests and market niche.

This domain is worth $200 - 1000 at BEST, and it would take a lot of searching to even get that much.

Nobody on hackforums is going to spend over $5000 on a domain dude.

Please refrain from posting your 15-year old bullshit on my sales thread.

Let me address the proof of ownership issue first, shall I.

All domains are parked, as they're listed for sale with a broker, hence I have no control of their ftp currently.

However I have presented sufficient evidence to many trusted users who have vouched on my previous thread.

Regardless, a middleman/escrow is more than welcome, at buyer's expense obviously. Even a multi-sig wallet is a completely viable option honestly.

You selling your shit domains that you just registered for a quick buck doesn't mean that everybody else does the same. If you genuinely think that this domain is worth under $10,000 - you're either completely clueless about the domain market, or a dick trying to bring other people down because you struggle to make a sale on your own.

In my flipping career totally I've sold probably over $2.5mil worth of domains, and you, a hf over-entitled piece of shit are going to bash on my price?

In fact, here alone there have been 5 offers on this one, and the top one is currently $5k - all from obviously serious businessmen, knowing that the domains pay for themselves in branding essentially - and also that domains are assets that do not lose on value over time. All these extra TLDs coming out only make the .com/.net/.org domains more valuable.

Edit: Sorry this wasn't enough to express how pissed I am at your lack of manners and exceptional lack of intelligence.

Like I'm offering these CHEAP as shit on here. Literally ALL the domains that I've listed here are worth MUCH more than what's listed here. Like I tried to bring prices down to fit this broke criminal marketplace, but you kids are just so fucking annoying it's impossible to please you.

Actually their appraisals are the most accurate of all automated appraisals currently online, and many of domains that I had sold - actually did sell for the prices close to Estibot appraisal value. Algorithm they use isn't applied to low tier domains hence Estibot has a bad name on forums and so

He's stated that he's under 18, and honestly, you wouldn't fuck around with a fake name etc when selling something for 5 figures on a site. I can't blame him for trying to sell this for BTC when he's at that age over going through an escrow site that won't back him due to him breaching the TOS should anything go south.

You have legal rights to modify registered data informations about you. He just needs to modify them and put his parents ones(By asking them firsts, but for such a big earning why the hell would they say no anyway).

When I was < 18, even if I was flipping something for mad profit my parents would have flayed me alive for even having put up that much cash to have the opportunity. It depends on the person's parental situation entirely.

Again, I don't know this guy, but if you go through an escrow/MM and actually acquire the domain, this has stupid potential for profit. Every flip is always a risk of course, but there's some big cash that could be made here.

Yo kid check all the replies and rep for vouches and all

What's the point of all this shit? Are you gaining anything? Nothing is fishy I'm literally just too lazy to upgrade, as accessing my BTC takes going into the bank safe to take a flash drive, which has to be signed by my friend too, and then going into another bank for the password for my VeraCrypt drive (which would obviously have to be changed after the transaction has been completed), decrypting the flash drive, downloading the blockchain, putting the new password on the drive, going to the bank #1 in order to again store the drive, and the bank #2 in order to store the new password.

All that for the ability to edit my post and update the current offer on the thread huh? Nah.

But as a clear word of caution to members. Paying with BTC for domain and going first seem rather risky. I personally wouldn't do it.

It would be stupid of me to ask for anyone to go first either way, willing to go first to you, no middleman needed. Let me know your budget, may have some golds for you if it's high enough. And offer will be added to thread as the current highest offer, if the $8,500 one can't do BTC.

You technically can, especially if it's a jacked domain, there's just a lot more of a rigmarole to go through and it usually requires going to court in my experience, however I'm sure that's dependent upon the registrar. For an expensive domain, the smartest thing somebody should do is to immediately transfer to a different registrar.

Error is a jealous pest, as far as I have seen.

Nice domain, I would recommend buying from him!

dirty cow - January 12, 2017, 3:33 pm

Hit me up guys if you wanna purchase.

Glad you were able to prove this is legitimate. Awesome domain with a lot of potential Sadly, it's way out of my league. Unfortunate that you can't sell on proper domain market as I'm sure it would get snapped up

Best of luck with sales

I know you've already probably been told this countless times, but you could get so much more somewhere else selling this domain than here.

dirty cow - January 13, 2017, 4:38 pm

Hey guys let me know if you're interested.

Errors - January 15, 2017, 12:14 pm

Interested, you have the c/o listed at 10k, would you actually settle for this price or something near it?

2 people offered $10k, don't understand why I would sell the domain under the current offer exactly?

(Dec 21, 2016 04:10 AM>Error Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Estibot is a joke, it's always wrong. People don't buy domains based on what some bot calculates using useless historical stats, they buy domains to fit their interests and market niche.

This domain is worth $200 - 1000 at BEST, and it would take a lot of searching to even get that much.

Nobody on hackforums is going to spend over $5000 on a domain dude.

You still haven't posted proof of ownership on any of your domain sales threads, as far as I'm concerned you're a scammer trying to make a quick buck.

Wow that was spot on.

Pretty much.

Deal with caution when buying from this guy.

Looking at his previous posts, these domains are probably stolen.

Pion - January 18, 2017, 12:31 pm

You want to go to SEDO and sell your domain. There are top domain brokers. HF is not a place for 10k BID unless benefiting with funds.

Or you can buy the domain and flip instead.
