Thread: worth to promote a youtube channel with bingads?

Ramos490 - December 20, 2016, 12:09 pm

Just started uploading. My average video gets atleast 200 views highest has 400, I know it's really bad view count, but it's just because no one knows about me and since youtube is so big, it really hard for new creators to join.

Would it be worth to promote with bingads? I have about $125 of bingads credit.

I also have 50 subs lol

Don't worry about promos now. Work on refining your seo and craft and once everything is up and running then promote to push you further.

Adv now will get you subs sure and a few people that might love your content, but you can do that naturally. Especially some of the ways that people around the forums do it.

I would personally try doing Affiliate Marketing with the money you have in BingAds. Maybe promote a product? I don't believe promoting YouTube through BingAds would give you much of a result :/ Research more and try make the most out of the credit you have! :) Good luck
