Thread: IOS 10.1.1 JAILBREAK HAS BEEN RELEASED! \(READ THREAD\)

Mom - December 21, 2016, 10:37 pm

I advise that all of you take the time to read this thread, since I didn't want to basically re-post everything I posted in this thread;

lol doesnt it seem like everytime a jailbreak drops the version is done being signed

Nyxuo - December 21, 2016, 10:44 pm

What if we're on 10.0.2? Can we still Jailbreak?

Lmao, I'm pretty sure that's what Apple is doing, luckily for me I updated on the latest Firmware, and I hope some of you were as well.

OP, I think you should also mention that the Jailbreak is currently unstable, and the developer of it recommends that people do not install it yet. Only developers should be using it.

There will always be people rushing to jailbreak their phones.

I've mentioned it many times, on my Thread that I've linked above that it's in Beta, and that shit is broken.

On purpose, of course.

Alternatively you could use an Android phone and not even have to root it to get the features that a jailbroken iPhone has

I don't prefer an Android, even though I've had one. It is also prone to get any type of Virus on the Phone, and has plenty of Vulnerabilities.

The only way you're going to get a virus on your Android is if you're an idiot with it lol
