Thread: Free Tips on growing an IG Stat!

Tax - December 22, 2016, 4:43 am

I've send this method to 50+ users and some of them actually found these tips useful so I decided to make it public to safe my self some time and help other users out. Expand the spoiler to see 10 tips. :)

Good luck!

Spoiler (Click to View) Hey, thanks for showing interest in my tips.

I've been using these "tricks" for my Tattoo Account that was kinda inactive untill I found the drill to grow it. As of now, the account grew from 5.2k to 42k in just 8 weeks.

*Note that my tips might not work out for you.

Note that English is not my native language so i'm sorry for any grammar issues/mistakes.

*Note that i've been using these "tricks" for only one account so far so I don't really know if it works for every niche.

1.) Use hashtags that are not too popular. I've been using hashtags that have not been used more than 350k times.

2.) Don't post your hashtags in your caption, post them in the comments instead.

3.) Don't use big captions, instead make a caption that's straight to the point.

4.) Ask your followers to tag their best friend.

Example of a caption that I use regularly:

"Post the title of the picture here"

"Ask your followers to tag a friend"

Which should look like this in my case:

Red Rose Tattoo

Tag a friend who needs to get this tattoo!

5.) If you can't find a nice picture on instagram, try Pinterest instead.

What I use to do is google something like this: "Cute Tattoo for girls pinterest"

6.) Don't copy pictures that have recently been posted by other big accounts.

7.) Follow users that have recently commented on other big accounts that have a similiar niche to yours. (Example: If you're running a comedy page that focuses on posting funny videos; follow users from an account that focuses on posting funny pictures.)

8.) Find out what's the best time to post. Mines are 12:00 CET and 18:00 CET.

9.) Don't post too often. Your followers won't like it if you post many times a day, you have to figure this out for yourself, some accounts are able to post 8 times a day while some accounts can only post once per day, it also depends on the quality of your posts obviously.

10.) Increase your amount of posts per day if the activity from your followers grows, but don't forget what I said at tip 9 and make sure you post at different time stamps.

Thanks for reading & Feel free to leave some feedback on the thread if this helped you.

I know this already and I confirm that they are really helpful to grow your page.

Also use a simple name. don't use names like xd_funny_comedy.2016

Also having an OG Name like Meme, Fun etc. will be the best to grow ur stat since many people are looking up these names.

You can also do small fake or real giveaways. If you don't want to send it out just declare your real account or one of ur friends as winner :)

I'm growing a fake raffle account atm and it has 5.8k Follower. Working really good. They also have to follow my Main Account to participate so it's double profit ?

You should put your hashtags in the comments, not the description.

I've just recently started doing that as you can see in my recents.

GodfatherRF - December 23, 2016, 1:06 am

Won't the hashtags in the comments show unless you actually have some people commenting already?

Thanks for these tips btw, I'm about to start growing a stat IG so I could really need it :)

I had this IG and switched my name to @topshelfdaily and the next day @budsource was taken and I already had a following. Got lucky some of my past followers liked @budsource.

realCezarEugene - February 17, 2017, 10:45 am

What about psychological manipulation? shouting out your post(s) on your other social media accounts? using SEO knowledge to boost your followers? what about making your own content and getting Facebook pages to publish it and link your IG? what happened to doing what the public doesn't know?

Otherwise, good thread, you gave tips that people knew subconsciously but didn't think about putting them to affect, but if they do happen to copy paste your thread on a text file and open it to read it every time they want to post results will show.
