So is this a cracker, or a turboer?

I didn't know you could turbo Kik names?

I think it gets the first and last name from when you sign-up and you can use the first and last name (ex. John Smith) on Leakedsource and try to find old passwords and match them to the account.

Correct me if I'm wrong though.

Chique - January 24, 2017, 12:08 pm

Interesting, so does it only look up the display name or does it see the name on the actual account? Because, if only the display name then I feel this would have very little effect lol

Pulls - January 24, 2017, 12:32 pm

So you use a name list to search for any available names (probably none which aren't crap) and don't actually get "The name you want"?

No, you put a list of kik usernames and it give you first and last name used for registration.
