What is mrccracker about?

mrccracker is a forum based on the art of brute forcing, we teach our members how to brute force loads of things.

Also we have various of other sections, such as the "resource" section, which can cover serial codes and more.

What does mrccracker stand out?

Our staff team focuses on fixing issues, resolving fights and deal disputes.

We try to maintain this at a high level, so all our member have a great time being on our website.

Next to that, we dislike drama.

What is the reward program?

Our reward program contains of several awards and groups.

Let's say, you sign up, you start off with nothing, no awards or groups.

But when you rank up, let's say at 50 posts, you'll enter the first group & gain your first award.

This stimulates our members more and more!

Why do I...?

Refer towards this site as our site? I do this because I believe the staff are just rule keepers, after all, we are all members of our site.

That makes you, but another random user as valuable as others.
