

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Disabling material design?

Blasts. - December 23, 2016, 7:36 am

I could do this in the old version of Chrome using a flag in "chrome://flags" but it's gone now.

Does anyone know a way that I can get rid of the material design at the top of the browser?

Canonsx130 - December 23, 2016, 9:12 pm

Try 'chrome://flags/#top-chrome-md' instead of chrome://flags.

Blasts. - December 24, 2016, 6:46 am

(Dec 23, 2016 10:12 PM)Canonsx130 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Try 'chrome://flags/#top-chrome-md' instead of chrome://flags.

Do I just put that in the search bar? Because it doesn't do anything, that was the flag I used before but it's gone in this version of chrome.

Aveling - December 24, 2016, 10:53 am

(Dec 24, 2016 07:46 AM)Blasts. Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Do I just put that in the search bar? Because it doesn't do anything, that was the flag I used before but it's gone in this version of chrome.

Yes, you put that part in the address bar/search bar, just like a website URL.

The option is still available for me, I am running Chrome 55.0.2883.87 m which appears to be the latest version.

Blasts. - December 24, 2016, 12:23 pm

(Dec 24, 2016 11:53 AM)Aveling Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Yes, you put that part in the address bar/search bar, just like a website URL.

The option is still available for me, I am running Chrome 55.0.2883.87 m which appears to be the latest version.

Yeah I'm running the same version but all it does is just makes the top bigger.