Thread: Change the Webmaster Marketplace

Katarina Du Couteau - December 25, 2016, 4:52 am

I feel like the Webmaster Marketplace should be postable. I think atm its A category, but Imo it should be a SF with other CFs!

What should be sold there?

I regularly see Website Coding Services, Scripts, Plugins, etc sold here.
I think they should have a section there.

Thoughts?

Yeah, I agree as well. Surprised this thread doesn't have more replies.

What would happen to the existing Hosting Services, Domain Trading, and Website Market sections if there was a Webmaster Marketplace? I feel that users would simply disregard the other sections and post in the main section, which they'll treat like a general buy/sell/trade section. Will put the entire section into disorder.

It would create utter havoc. Then you can put topics from all sections into that category so point of having sub-forum would diminish. There's a reason why Omni doesn't have postable categories. ?

We could merge the website & domain CF into the SF and replace them with Premixes [Domain][Site] - they are not very active anyways so that would be good!
The hosting could stay.

True but it's good SEO to have them broken down into their own organized categories. So I won't change that.

Any decision on changing from a Category to a SF?

You havent closed the thread.
