(Dec 25, 2016 04:36 PM)Bitch with Bills in Bits Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) If it goes under 800 EUR, I will gamble on 750 EUR. It won't go below 700 EUR most likely.

750 EUR is around 785 USD. BTC value should be 980-1000 USD in 6 months. 680-725 EUR would be a dream value when I invest, but I won't wait too long, but 1-2 weeks at maximum.

Your not afraid of BTC crashes? It happens all the time...

Stevensan - December 25, 2016, 4:28 pm

I would not invest that much money in bitcoin. Bitcoin has no fundamental value. You can better invest in stocks.

BTC BTC BTC - December 25, 2016, 4:29 pm

50k reward on 250k gamble. I wouldn't say this is a very good move. Very very risky.

Also, 269,530 euros is the amount you have to pay back. If it does hit 1000 Euro/BTC you'd have 298,475 euros in bitcoin.

$298,475 - 269,530 = 28,945$

Is it really worth 29k profit over a period of 6 months or maybe more with such a high risk?

I think not, but that's my opinion.

Not a good idea but let us know how it goes

HairyHarry - January 3, 2017, 11:02 am
Why at $800? Let it fall and fall, and then when it starts raising $10-20 a day, you buy in.

Undefined - January 3, 2017, 12:10 pm
Maybe just invest into ETH? Same amount and the reward could be higher.

mvmt - January 3, 2017, 12:33 pm
I feel BTC will max out around the $1,050 range, you've made good money I would cash out while you still can.

Don't listen to others who say not to buy or that you should sell if you really feel that you can do it and you will be the only one who does it. That's why I have made big amount with XMR, ETH and BTC, although I don't trust XMR and ETH now even if they tend to rise and drop like they was made for short-term investments.

I just wanted to show you people that everything is possible. Next, I will wait for XMR or ETH drop and double my money again.Lol yet you cannot provide proof of the BTC you purchased or any photos of a cent to your name ?

...so you can conduct Bitcoin transactions that are not broadcasted to the (or visible on the) Bitcoin blockchain. Makes sense.

High risk and high reward. Do you have any proof? Best of luck with this OP, I hope you've done some research before jumping on this.
