So I'm just one of them poor bois. We out here, get paychecks and drop them on bills type of guy. I just tryna get rich, trying to figure out my best outlet would be... My current decisions are

- 1) Poker
- 2) Team Gambling (Mostly Basketball, Football)
- 3) Stocks (Need more income I think)

These all provide risks but I am just curious on which one you guys think I should master.

Perhaps i'll just do them all.

How exactly do you master something you have zero control over?

Malicious Intent - December 26, 2016, 10:11 am

I don't recommend gambling at all. If your financial situation is not that great you will end up making it even worse by gambling. Just ask yourself what is it that you are pretty good at and start offering this as a service. Maybe learn some basics of web design and try to sell it as a service. Markup languages can be mastered relatively fast and thats all you really need to start off.

tldr; Earn it, don't gamble.

You have control of certain variables throughout all of these.

Yes, Lady luck has to smile upon you for some things. But human species themselves are predictable in terms of Poker, Stocks, Performance

If I were you I'd go slang/sell dick at the senior citizen apartment homes.

It's guaranteed money being that the government pays them retirement and shit.

A lot of them old bitches are freaks. Easy money. Just gotta be willing to fuck some old hoes.

Good luck with that.

Take a look at my thread, make a goal

You should never make gambling a main source of income, thats an awful decision unless you are extremely talented.

What are your skills? What are you interested in doing?

Malicious Intent - December 26, 2016, 10:21 am

If you really want to go that road... I guess you should meet this guy:

Stock trading is the only one of these you could even remotely "master". Don't waste your time or money trying to increase your odds with gambling.

ama - December 26, 2016, 10:27 am

Don't gamble, should just go ahead and take that off the list homie. It'll ruin your life seriously.

OMG I'm dead right now. Hands down best meme I've ever seen in my life.

Btw OP, out of those 3 choices, I would go with investing into stocks. It could be very profitable for you, however know that you can lose a bit & also do your research before investing.
