Thread: Ban reason on profile?

ZuGgY - December 27, 2016, 7:55 pm

I have no clue if this was suggested before (forgive me if it has), but what about having a ban reason implemented on said member's profile (even for closed users)?

Thanks.

B?ker - December 27, 2016, 7:57 pm

This is actually a user script already made so no need for omni to implement this tbh

Well besides userscripts, I'm saying...and just having it implemented directly by default...

I'm on mobile also pretty sure you need to be Uber to view bans

I already recommended this, and Omni insinuated that he will be implementing something in the future:

Oh great sounds good!

Well, he's an ub3r. ?

Here the link to the user script. If Omni implements something like that, I'm sure it will be only available for bans. Closed accounts won't have a displayed reason for sure.

Bluffer - December 27, 2016, 11:40 pm

It's in HFES grab that and it has a lot of other features too.

If I had my way I'd get the option to add certain links to pages in extras to the top of the forum on the right of private messages, cite button build into the site and ban reasons on profile but all of these simple things are in HFES so why not just get that and save Omni the time? Even if he wanted to add them that is.

Quite weird that you have ub3r award, but infact you are l33t ?

He got demoted from ub3r to l33t by Omni.

HFES is dead af, its around thanks to another script being around but its generally more unsafe. :P Still using it tho

Zexo - December 28, 2016, 12:14 am

Ub3rs can just go to bans.php and ctrl + f and type the name in to find it.

It's already implemented but for closed accounts only.

Bluffer - February 13, 2017, 11:29 pm

This is in one of the popular user scripts I'm pretty sure its HFES.

It's incredible I really enjoy it.

HFES's domain was purchased which caused adware to appear in certain versions of the script. It would be better (less load on HF) if it was native.

A little off topic here, but I cannot even find the userscript made by Emlybus anymore for some reason.

So staff removed the thread.

I've done my best to replicate most the features.

Did you not say he was working on something else that's gonna be great?

Take it you didn't read what he said?

"closed accounts won't have a displayed reason FOR SURE"

Go look through all closed accounts and tell me if you find a reason on all, I remember seeing some earlier on today saying "N/A".

(Feb 14, 2017 09:00 AM)xadamxk Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I'm going to assume the closed accounts prior to that feature were given "N/A"

Like I said above, I'm pretty sure I've seen some accounts RECENTLY that have been closed and said "N/A". I mean, I think Eagle should know.
