i know this is the biggest noob question someone can ask but hear me out, lately i been trying to get my gf fb account because i'm a insecure faggot, now i know "hacking" fb is near imposible so i looked for some form of user error and i found this feature that lets you reset your password by sending a photo of your birth certificate to "confirm your indentity", fake documents are easy to make if you live in a shit hole like me so i decided to give it a try on myself and it sure as shit worked now the problem is when i try to request the same password reset on my gf profile it doesn't give me the option and i already tried a bunch of shit with no luck, so can someone help a brother out? I only have my phone at the moment so i haven't been able to try more advanced stuff

Why would you want to hack your own gf, talk to her about whatever it is. Hacking her won't make her happy Agreed.

FB most likely matches your IP to your account so it knows it's you, and I do like recommending spoofing but in this case with file uploads you aren't going to do anything unless you're on your girlfriend's computer with her network IP, which if is dynamic- like most peoples- you're screwed so good luck.

So getting her ip it is? What i think is fucking it up is that fb only gives you said option if you have been logged into said device
