RottenTomatoes - December 29, 2016, 6:09 pm

hello, I was on the internet today and found something called "furry porn" basically human-like animals, doing well yeah...

anyways I'm a christian and don't want to make god mad, so i was wondering does he hate furry porn or is it ok to look at? thanks

God doesn't exist, so that solves that one. Beastality on the other hand is pretty naughty.

they read a bunch of fan fic to eachother every sunday and call it church like its something special. Not to mention they're a bunch of sadomasochists, they literally celebrate the romans turning their "savior" into a sub/cuck bitch every easter.

Not a christian but damn that was offensive

They celebrate Jesus being resurrected after three days, after being hung on the cross for our sins. It's basically a holiday based on rebirth and new beginnings etc, a time to follow his example so that we might forgive and forget, and be resurrected in a better, new image- maybe that one of Jesus

Again, not a christian, but you should respect other people's beliefs

Yeah, I guess it is pretty offensive. Ill edit my post.

I respect people enough to not shove my beliefs down their throat, I expect the same but tbh thats never the case.

Dude its not just god that hates furry porn, like pretty sure most of the universe aren't really fans of the idea of humanoid animals fucking each other.
