

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Is there way to kick people off your network via CMD?

Not Your Average Orange - January 5, 2017, 7:25 am

Hi, I was wondering if there was a way to kick people off your network via CMD. I know you can do it by entering the router ip in your browser and stuff. I tried following some tutorials but net view doesn't seem to work for me.

Thanks!

(I'm on win 7)

JoshuTee - January 5, 2017, 11:13 am

No, there isn't. You'll have to open your router control panel and manually remove them

Malicious Intent - January 5, 2017, 11:15 am

(Jan 5, 2017 08:25 AM)hkessel1 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Hi, I was wondering if there was a way to kick people off your network via CMD. I know you can do it by entering the router ip in your browser and stuff. I tried following some tutorials but net view doesn't seem to work for me.

Thanks!

(I'm on win 7)

How about remote shutdown? It wont keep them away for long but annoying still...

Not Your Average Orange - January 5, 2017, 11:44 am

(Jan 5, 2017 12:15 PM)Malicious Intent Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) How about remote shutdown? It wont keep them away for long but annoying still...

Oh yeah, forgot about that.