Thread: Inactive Accounts Closed And Trust Scan

Omniscient - January 5, 2017, 2:33 pm

Just closed a ton of inactive accounts. We're having problems with them being sold to scam.

Accounts that aren't logged into for 1 year are subject to being permanently closed due to inactivity.

The following number of members were closed today:

550 Ub3r

2500 L33t

25,000 Regular Members

I have been planning to add to the TS page a "CLOSED REASON" mainly to prevent continued reports by members because accounts match. We do allow members with accounts closed due to inactivity to return.

Current reasons that you'll see are; Trolling, Multiple Accounts, Ban Evasion, Low Quality Posting, and Inactivity. If a closed account does not match one of those it simply shows as "N/A".

Example TS page of an inactive closed account:

<https://hackforums.net/trustscan.php?uid=848794>

Thank you.

EDIT: Added "Lost or Stolen", "Reputation Abuse" and "Deal Disputes" to reasons.

J?son - January 5, 2017, 2:34 pm

I am really glad you did this tbh, cuts down on the potential hackers to get accounts

Underworldproblem - January 5, 2017, 2:34 pm

Thanks Omni for doing this. It really helps keep the community safe.

minimalist - January 5, 2017, 2:35 pm

Ancestral - January 5, 2017, 2:36 pm

I too am glad you did this, as it frees up usernames others can use and it cuts down on many fraudulent cases.

Prophett - January 5, 2017, 2:36 pm

Good idea. It will definitely prevent users selling their accounts.

DevNet - January 5, 2017, 2:36 pm

Good thought. I'm assuming closed Ub3rs will have to go retake all steps to getting accepted and will lose their upgrades?

Cabo - January 5, 2017, 2:37 pm

I cannot wait for the closed reason on TS. Will be a great addition.

Parks - January 5, 2017, 2:37 pm

Great addition can't wait for my name to be pruned so I can finally get my name without a special character though!

Not trying to hint at anything haa haa

Niccolò Machiavelli - January 5, 2017, 2:38 pm

I think 1 year is reasonable, but I'm sure we will be seeing threads regardless trying to recover their accounts.

Mr.Peanut - January 5, 2017, 2:38 pm

Damn, rip to a few people who've been inactive then. Oh well they probably won't notice for another year lmaoo

That has already been added. Check the link in OP.

Vitani - January 5, 2017, 2:38 pm

I think this is a great step forward to ensure the safety of HF and its members.

This will definitely get a decent amount of scammers to give up and move on from hacking HF accounts just to scam.

Great work.

Malicious Intent - January 5, 2017, 2:45 pm

I was actually thinking about it today seeing how some accounts were made year or two ago and have 20 posts total yet vouching for products..

Thanks for doing this.

Regulus - January 5, 2017, 2:47 pm

Holy fuck that's a shit ton of accounts.

I'm so glad you did this though, will hopefully decrease the amount of scams.

I think it's because he's allowing him to rejoin, and the only way you're allowed to rejoin is if you were closed for inactivity.

not a bad idea.

I suggest you close this user: <https://hackforums.net/member.php?action=profile&uid=739488>

Wrong.

It's $$18 + $25 \times 550$

Cost of leet + cost of uber

= $do the math

These ub3rs probably had awards and stuff too, maybe ep1c as well.

Then the leet as well;

$$18 \times 2500 =$ do the math

If you count these all up and also $3,5k in donations of all these accounts approximately you should get a number which is pretty close.

Caliban - January 5, 2017, 4:39 pm

Wow thats a big chuck of users that got banned

But its a good decision since it reduces scams and accs being sold/hacked...

Also i like the new "Reason Closed" feature, im a curious guy and i sometimes wonder why people got closed

Will the "closed reason"s apply to accounts closed before you added this feature? (i.e. were the reasons already stored in the DB?)

Also maybe another good reason for closure would be "Requested by user" (like Roger Waters)

That's a lot of closed accounts. Will you ever delete accounts that have been closed for 5+ years?

also, if someone does a vacation ban, does that count towards the inactivity? I notice some members want a year vacation break even tho the limit is 6 months but I guess if they do 6 months vacation + 6 month inactive they get closed?

The way you're wording it is fucked. Anyways If someone did it for 6 months and if they want to keep their account all they would have to do is log in again then you're good for another 6 months.

INCREDIBLE - January 6, 2017, 4:20 pm

Appropriate step I would say it is. but would be great if you could remove the given negative reputation by the inactive/permanently banned users as long as its not about scamming and valid reason.

because many clean users have to live with bad/unjust comments on their profile due to some temporary rage over and false accusations. I'm sure it will be a good addition too.

I can already tell you that this won't happen.. Who on earth has the time to choose all the reputations which aren't about scamming and have a "valid" reason? That alone, deciding which one is "valid", how do you want to decide which ones are "valid"?

I don't see why this would be needed. It's given the ban reason on their profile.

(Jan 6, 2017 05:09 PM)TryAgain Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Thats a lot of closed accounts. Will you ever delete accounts that have been closed for 5+ years?

also, if someone does a vacation ban, does that count towards the inactivity? I notice some members want a year vacation break even tho the limit is 6 months but I guess if they do 6 months vacation + 6 month inactive they get closed?

This is just my opinion but if they do a vacation ban and then stay off another 6 months when that vacation ban ends then it is there own fault for the closure

After reading here: <https://hackforums.net/misc.php?action=help&hid=24>

"Regular member accounts can be closed after 6 months inactivity. Inactive L33t and Ub3r are subject to closure after one year. The activity is based on account login. You are not required to post"

The rules clearly state L33T & UB3R can be closed after one year of inactivity, whether they are vacation banned or not inactivity is inactivity, They should pay attention to what is listed there and if they forget or fail to login in time then its on them.

It shouldn't be up to Omni or whoever does pruning/closures to monitor how a users account is inactive because it will become a hassle but rather just pay attention to the dates.

I am going to assume there is some form of system he has in place to monitor the inactive dates but I tell you one this he just did it for 28,000 accounts and I wouldn't want to go through each one of those to see which was vacation banned or not.

I would imagine this will prevent tons and tons of accounts from being sold. Great work Omni, as always.

If the persons account is closed are you able to get their username? Because the username I want is currently still taken even though his account is closed and has been inactive for years.

Would be interesting if Adam has/could come up with a list of all purchased awards, gifted and non gifted, and upgrades (of all members, since the beginning of this).
Must be quite a large sum. ?

Is there anyway i can get an inactive account back?

Arrogance - January 9, 2017, 8:57 am

From one side, I'm glad this is a prevention mechanic towards scammers, but from the other side, I have been inactive for a year and it would actually blow to see my account gone and no way to recover it (even if I'm "welcome" to return under another account), if I am right by understanding it this way.

No but if you were closed for inactivity you can make another account. I'm assuming this is your new account so stick with it.
