Thread: Escape from Tarkov - Open world/Survival/PVP

Not sure why I'm only just hearing about this game as it looks really, really good. If you enjoy a somewhat open world (It's large but it's limited), scavenging shooting AI/Other players and generally trying to survive. You'll enjoy this game. Has a sort of Arma/DayZ feel to it.

Either in a team or solo, the aim is to survive and get to the middle/pick up zone

Trailer is a little dated, couldn't find a more recent one.

Just pre-ordered it ?

This game looks fantastic but I personally am a bit scared that the formula of gameplay it offers will get stale eventually.

But its only Alpha so I hope to see the Devs give the game a bit more features gameplay wise.

I feel as though the game will be good however o refuse to preorder games. Last game I preordered was The Witcher 3 and before that was the first Black Ops. I don't want to waste money on a game that isn't advertised how it plays.

For anyone that's interested, the game has now gone into Closed Beta. As long as you have a copy, you can install and play

I signed up with 100+ OG names as soon as registration came out AGES ago.

I hope this game gets huge, I have almost the entire alphabet (a, b, c, d etc) and tons of 2-3 letter words LOL.
